MOB WRECKS WORLD FAIR

RIOTOUS SCENE IN CHICAGO

POLICE THROWN IN LAGOON

ENORMOUS
DAMAGE

Chicago, Nov. 1.
The Chicago World's Fair closed with scenes of the wildest disorder. Boisterous crowds turned ugly when they had felt their strength and did enormous damage throughout the fair grounds.

Revellers spent the night pillaging the booths and doing wanton damage valued at $150,000. They wrecked the model villages and pitched furniture and policemen who attempted to intervene into the lagoon.

They drank every drop of beer at the fair, breaking into the stores held by concessionaires. Scores of employees of various establishments fled in terror before the surging crowds which steadily grew in numbers and in courage.

One of the last outrages was the invasion of the model Italian village. The crowd became infuriated when Sally Rand, the fan dancer, refused to perform because the night was too cold. The mob went wild and tore things to pieces. Police were helpless and the disorders continued until the crowd had exhausted its energy.—Reuter.

SALVATION ARMY PRAISED

DUKE OF YORK'S TRIBUTE

HUGE MEETING

London, Nov. 1.

H.R.H. the Duke of York paid a warm tribute to the Salvation Army at a huge meeting in the Albert Hall, London, to-day, when the Army said farewell to its retiring Head, General Higgins.

The Duke said the Salvation Army made a great claim upon the regard not only of members of the Royal Family, but of all sincere and thoughtful people, because it helped undoubtedly to make for more tolerant religious opinions and class distinctions.

"I believe," he said "there is today more mutual sympathy and understanding nationally and internationally, and the Salvation Army, among other religious and philanthropic bodies, has had a full share in bringing that about. If an example were required as proof, it is here this afternoon. On this platform are many representatives of many faiths—Anglican, Non-conformist, Catholic, Jew, Hindu and Mohammedan, met here in glad accord to show their appreciation of the leader of another religious body and thus pay their tribute to the work of the Salvation Army."—British Wireless.

ANGLO-GERMAN AGREEMENT

ARRANGEMENT FOR DEBT PAYMENT

ROAD SMOOTHED
FOR TRADE

London, Nov. 1.

The Anglo-German debts clearing agreement, terms of which were given by the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman, in the House of Commons, was initiated in Berlin to-day.

In his statement Mr. Runciman said that for some time during the negotiations it appeared no solution of the difficulties could be found, except along the lines of a clearing agreement, in spite of the drawbacks of such a system and the hindrances which it inevitably placed upon the flow of trade. The draft clearing agreement which, it was hoped, would avoid major difficulties inherent in such an arrangement, and pitfalls which had prevented the successful working of similar agreements between Germany and other countries, had, however, been agreed upon.

Towards the end of negotiations the German Government put forward an alternative proposal with the object of safeguarding payment for current exports of United Kingdom goods to Germany and enabling outstanding debts to be liquidated without setting up a clearing system. The basis of this proposal was that the German Government would guarantee that 55 per cent. of the value of German exports to the United Kingdom should be definitely earmarked for payment of United Kingdom exports to Germany. This allocation should, according to the normal trend of Anglo-German trade, be sufficient to ensure full payment.

REICHSBANK AID.

The Reichsbank will provide immediately not less than £400,000 for liquidation of outstanding commercial debts and will also expedite their liquidation by realisation of outstanding German commercial claims on the United Kingdom, whether by credit operation or otherwise. Insofar as these measures are not sufficient the Reichsbank will set aside an additional percentage, provisionally fixed at 10 per cent. of the value of German exports to the United Kingdom, sufficient to ensure liquidation of all outstanding debts within twelve months. Sondermarks standing in the clearing account under the exchange agreement of August last, as well as those waiting to go into that account will continue to be held by the Bank of England and further arrangements will be made whereby with the help of credit operation, and if necessary of the Reichsbank, it was announced to-day.—Reuter.

BERLIN PRESS HOLDS BRITAIN PARTLY RESPONSIBLE

TENSION GROWS IN EUROPE

Paris, Nov. 1.

The tension surrounding the Saar, considerably increased by the French preparations to throw troops into the region in the event of an attempted Nazi putsch, is causing some uneasiness in Europe. Britain, in spite of her desire to dissociate herself from the affair, now finds herself being deliberately involved by Germany.

It was authoritatively stated here to-day that French motor units behind the Alsatian border are ready to enter the Saar at a moment's notice, if President Knox of the League Governing Commission, issues an appeal for assistance. This he will only do if the local gendarmerie are overwhelmed by Nazis during or before the plebiscite on January 13.

The fact that 10,000 young Saar Nazis have been undergoing training in Germany with a view to exerting pressure during the plebiscite makes it not improbable that the French troops may be called upon.

UNWILLING INTERVENTION.

France insists that a few thousand men thrown into the Saar in the event of trouble could master the situation in a single afternoon.

It is emphasised that France does not want to become involved in action of this sort and believes that the fact of her preparedness will deter demonstrators and obviate the necessity of further action. If troops are despatched, however, it will not be with the idea of influencing the plebiscite and they will be withdrawn as soon as order is restored.—Reuter.

GERMAN RESENTMENT.

Berlin, Nov. 1.
The German press is indignant, denying that a Nazi putsch is intended in the Saar. The newspapers declare that France is merely trying to influence the plebiscite and call upon England to openly decline to participate in an "invasion of the Saar."—Reuter.

LEAGUE ACTION.

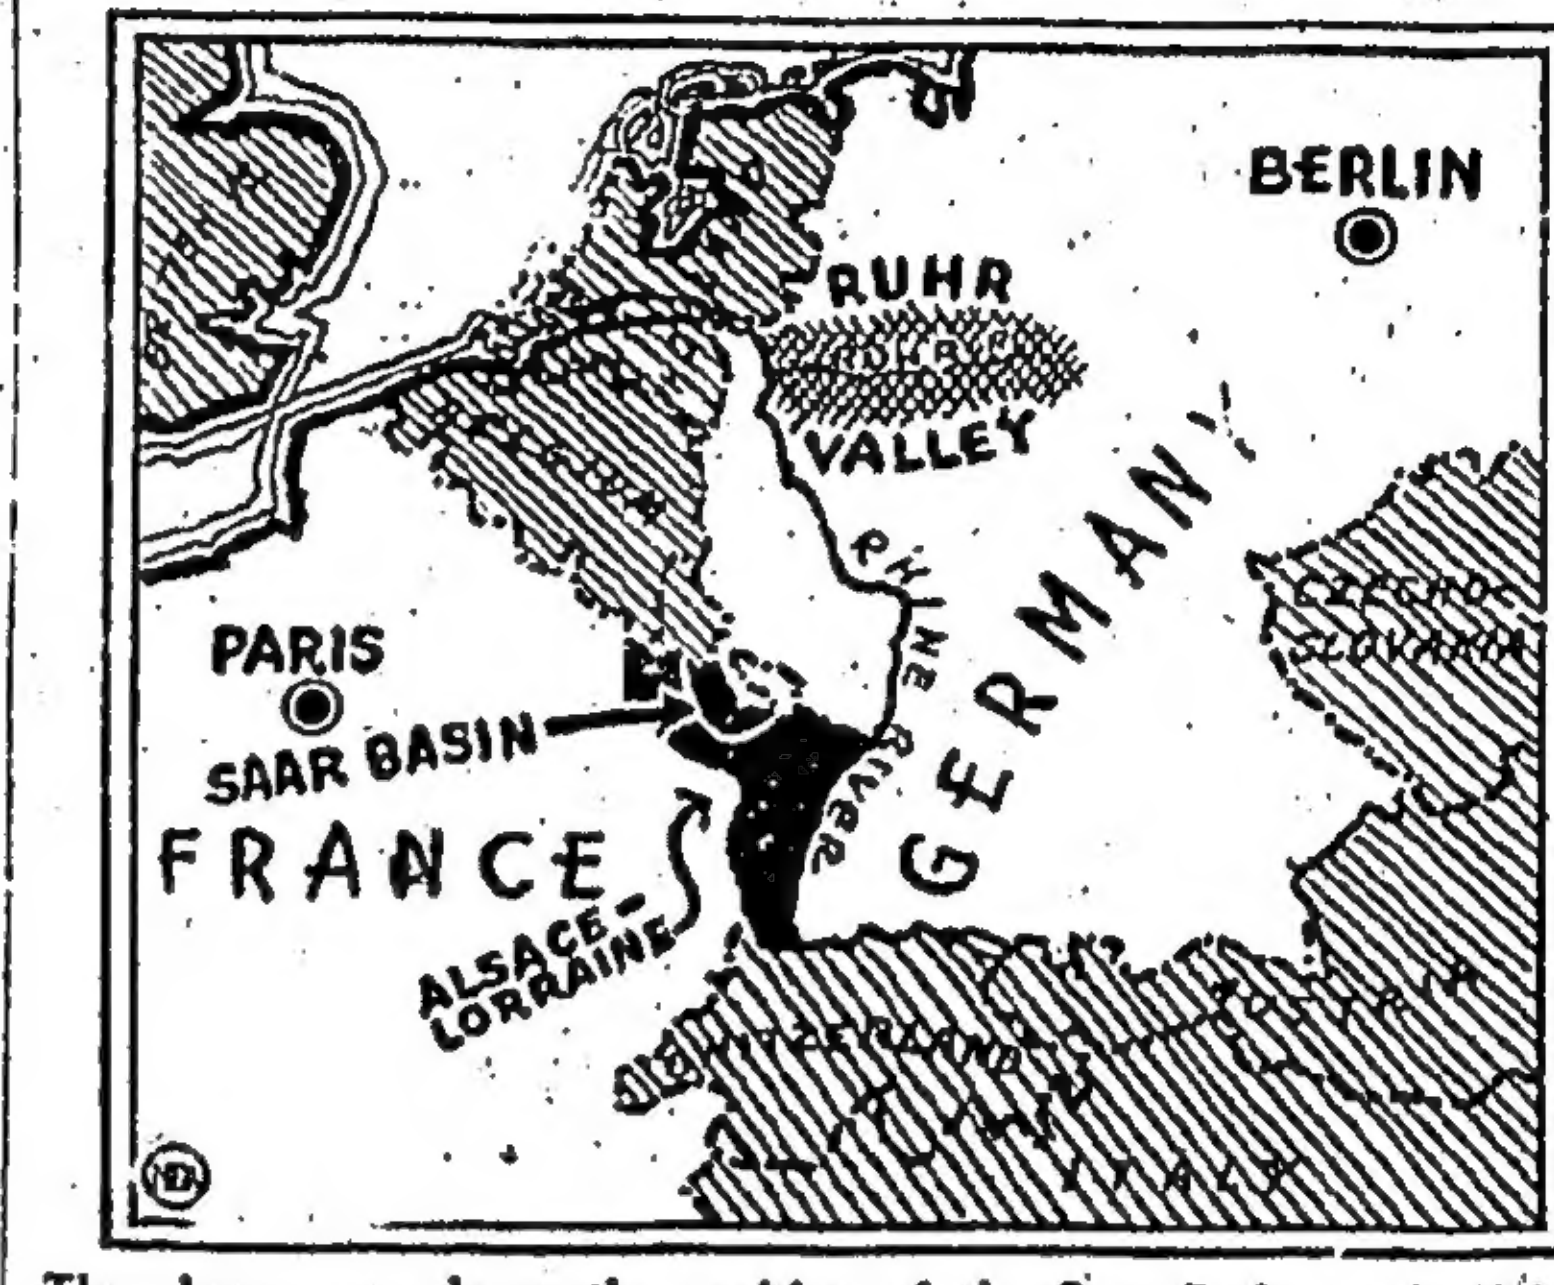

Geneva, Nov. 1.
The League of Nations Council will be convoked on November 21 to study the question of the Saar plebiscite.

Meanwhile reports of the French preparations to march troops into the Saar as a precaution against a possible German putsch have aroused high resentment in Germany.

The press, according to information published here, warns Britain that she will be held partly responsible for the consequences if French troops enter the Saar.—Reuter.

AMERICA FIGHTS MONOPOLY

FAR EAST OIL
TRADE BARRED

JAPAN HELD RESPONSIBLE

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic News Agency Ordinance, 1931. Received, November 2, 9.25 a.m.)

Washington, Nov. 1.
It is learned that the State Department is considering further representations to Japan, concerning the Manchukuo oil situation.

The United States considers the proposed oil monopoly a distinct violation of the Japanese "Open Door" policy in Manchukuo and another move to clarify the position is imminent.

The United States, it is said, considers Japan directly responsible for the maintenance of the "Open Door" in Manchukuo and will resist Japanese efforts to evade responsibility by attempting to have the United States deal with Manchukuo direct. Manchukuo, at least unofficially, is regarded as a Japanese puppet state.

MANCHUKUO IGNORED.

It is indicated clearly that the United States has no intention of holding conversations with Manchukuo in the matter of the oil monopoly.

It is the official contention that Japan cannot evade her responsibility in her apparent attempt to close the door of Manchukuo commerce to the rest of the world. That Japan herself is responsible is revealed by the fact that the proposed Manchukuo oil monopoly would be financed with 80 per cent. of Japanese capital.—United Press.

TOE IN THE DOOR.

Washington, Nov. 1.
The United States has no intention of relaxing its efforts to maintain the "Open Door" in the Far East, declared the Under-Secretary of State, Mr. Phillips, to-day.

The Government was considering its next move in regard to the proposed Manchukuo oil monopoly, he said.

Americans took the position that Japan had promised to maintain the "Open Door" policy in Manchukuo, and that they were consequently entitled to expect freedom of operation there. Washington may make further representations to Tokyo unless a solution is reached.—Reuter.

With the fall of Changting, the Reds have entirely lost their last foothold in Fukien.

A subsequent report states that the Government troops entered the city of Changting and have started rehabilitation work. Emergency measures are being taken to relieve the refugees and sufferers in the city.—Central News.

Mexico City, Nov. 1.
It is learned that Attorney General Portes Gil intends soon to present evidence alleging sedition against high Roman Catholic prelates in Mexico and also to initiate prosecutions.

It is understood the charges concern the churchmen's opposition to the Government's rationalistic education programme under the Six-Year Reconstruction Plan. President Rodriguez in a letter to the Attorney General in which he ordered an inquiry into the churchmen's activities, stating that he is proceeding with a plan to expel these churchmen from Mexico.

Egyptian Political Shake-Up

TWO MINISTERS
RESIGN

Alexandria, Nov. 1.

As a sequel to the recent quarrel between the British and Egyptian authorities here, King Fuad, in spite of his illness, granted an audience to Premier Yehia Pasha to-day who tendered the resignations of Minister of Agriculture, Alexander Bey and Minister of Communications, Ibrahim Fahmy Pasha.

Premier Yehia Pasha, following his audience, informed the press in emphatic terms that there was no possibility of the entire Cabinet resigning.

The cause of the quarrel with the Residency is said to be a belief on the part of Premier Yehia Pasha that the British authorities overstepped their rights, according to the constitution, by suggesting certain provisions for securing liaison between the Residency and the Government during the King's illness. The acting High Commissioner has explained that the suggestion was made on the advice of White Hall and following a request by Premier Yehia Pasha for a plan of procedure.—Reuter.

FILMLAND NEWS

"Film in Infancy of Development"

BRITAIN'S PRESTIGE

The film, whether considered as entertainment or as education, is but in the infancy of its development, and its main contribution to social welfare is still to come, says the British Film Institute in its first annual report.

Experience has shown during the past year, it is stated, that both the quality and prestige of British films are rising, and producers and exhibitors are more prepared than they have been to experiment with films of artistic merit and educational value.

The Institute was founded last October for the purpose of furthering co-operation between those who make, distribute, and exhibit films, and all who are interested in the artistic, educational, and cultural possibilities of films.

Various panels have been formed to deal with specific aspects of the film industry, including education, entertainment, international relations, social service, and scientific research.

Among the matters under the consideration of the entertainment panel are:—The securing of views from the public as to the type of film required, and making available these opinions to the film producers; special films and programmes for children's performances; encouragement to the repertory theatre movement; and methods to be adopted whereby public support may be given to films containing some unusual merit, which do not obtain appreciation from the ordinary cinema-going public.

The international relations panel is considering means of establishing machinery whereby films showing national characteristics can be freely circulated between Great Britain and other countries.

An interesting suggestion made in the report is that films of cultural or instructional value should be freed from the formality of being certified by the British Board of Censors. It has been submitted to the Film Censorship Consultative Committee that any such films viewed and approved by the British Film Institute should not need further examination by the Board of Censors.

A FILM CAVALCADE.

Gene Fowler, the American biographer, has just completed a story of the life of Mack Sennett which is to be made into a film giving the "Cavalcade" of the motion picture industry since the first celluloid picture was made in a Hollywood stable.

The greatest cast ever formed for one film will appear in the picture, including Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, Wallace Beery, Buster Keaton, Louise Fazenda, Harold Lloyd, Carole Lombard, Bing Crosby, Sally Eilers, W. C. Fields, Ford Sterling, and a host of others.

The history of the film industry will be coloured with snags of the private and professional lives of the greatest living artists.

CINEMA CENSORSHIP.

The Glasgow Council of Juvenile Organisation is still "far from satisfied" on the question of cinema censorship.

Commenting on the subject in the annual report, to be presented at the annual meeting in Glasgow, the Executive Committee states that until the Secretary of State for Scotland makes the Home Office "model conditions" compulsory the whole matter of cinema censorship in Scotland will remain unsatisfactory.

SUN TAN IN WINTER

At the end of the summer many women are left with a legacy of sun-tanned arms, face and neck. Tanned skin is attractive when showing above cotton frocks, but when evening dress is worn it does seem somewhat out of place.

If your arms are burned brown by the sun, you may care to bleach them if you go out much in the evenings. Try rubbing them every day with half a freshly cut lemon. Begin at the shoulders, and rub the arms down to the wrists, allowing the lemon juice to dry on the skin. This treatment is excellent for discoloured arms. Sometimes, nicely shaped arms just miss being beautiful because the skin is marked by blemishes. These can often be cured by scrubbing the arms with a loofah dipped in a warm soapy lather. The skin should be scrubbed until it is pink and glowing. Do this every day for a week or so, and the skin will be sure to be cleansed and improved.

If olive oil is massaged into the skin before it is rubbed with the loofah it helps to remove blemishes that have been there a long time. If your elbows are rough, scrubbing them with a loofah and hot soapy water, followed by splashing them with cold water, will improve them, too. After drying them carefully, massage them with almond oil.

Massage, done regularly every day, will help to reduce arms that are too fat in places. When you wear evening dress, liquid powder is the best "make-up." Sponge it on the arms and neck, rub it in gently with the palms of the hands, and let it dry before smoothing the skin with a perfectly clean chamois leather.

Marilyn Miller Married.

The marriage of Marilyn Miller, the dancer and film and stage actress, to Chester O'Brien, the dancer, in Harrison, New York State, took place in circumstances "worthy of one of Miss Miller's musical comedies," declares the experiences he had during his visit there (says Reuter).

"It is no longer a case of 'young man go West' if you are in films, but 'young man go East,'" he said.

"London to-day is in the cinema world what New York and Hollywood used to be.

LONGER SERVICE FOR CONSCRIPTS?

FRENCH ARMY MAY ALTER SYSTEM

MANOEUVRES' REVELATIONS

Important alterations in the military laws of France may follow, it is believed, the manoeuvres of the 41st Division of the Army—composed entirely of Reservists—which ended in the Marne district recently.

The test was a severe one, both for officers and men, and Gen. Fretelat, of the Supreme War Council, spoke highly of the spirit and endurance of the Reservists, who were commanded by General Barrard, who is on the Reserve list.

In military circles it has long been urged that one year's service is not sufficiently long to train good Reservist officers or N.C.O.s.

The lessons of these manoeuvres are held to confirm this view, as showing that all ranks needed more instruction in their duties in the field.

LONGER SERVICE.

Two suggestions have been put forward to remedy this. One is that conscript service should be increased from one year to two years, and the second that the number of long-service men—now about 100,000—should be increased.

References have been made recently to possible additional military expenditure this year. Much of this will be for the Air Force and for artillery and motor equipment, but it is possible that it may also be decided to change the present military laws.

In political circles the proposal is being made that a compromise should be effected between the two alternatives quoted.

By this compromise France might call her conscripts up for 18 months, while she might enrol 50,000 more long-service men, to be stationed near the Maginot Line and to serve with the active troops as a covering army in case of mobilisation.

New York Daily News (quoted by Reuter.)

The couple arrived at Harrison at a time when its citizens were all arrayed as rustics and were attending an old-fashioned barn dance. Even the Justice of the Peace who was called on to marry them was dressed in an old torn hat, patched overalls, and false whiskers.

Marilyn Miller has been twice married already. Her first husband was a Frank Carter, who died. Then she married Jack Pickford. The marriage was dissolved.

BUSTER KEATON FILM.

Work on Buster Keaton's first British film, a British and Continental production which is being made under the working title of "The Intruder," started this week at the Worton Hall studios. Lupita Tovar, the Spanish-American actress, is playing opposite Buster Keaton in this production, which has a Spanish background. The supporting cast includes Lyn Harding, Clifford Heatherley, and Esme Percy.

DREADFUL MENACE OF NOISELESS AIRCRAFT

By ROGER FULLER.

THE success of a new aircraft apparatus, demonstrated at Hanworth aerodrome, has shown that air power is now approaching its ultimate terror—that night-mare conception, feared for years, when warplanes will be able to swoop noiselessly through the night sky, their approach unsuspected, their presence unrevealed.

I flew in one of the first machines to be equipped with a silencer—developed in co-operation with Air Ministry experts at Farnborough.

The silencer has reached such a state of perfection that there is no point in improving its qualities further until greater advance has been made in reducing aircraft noise.

The engine beat yesterday was reduced to a mere rushing noise, and instead of being forced to shout in the cabin it was easy to make oneself understood in a normal speaking voice.

LESS NOISY THAN A CAR.

From the ground, even when the machine was flying as low as 50ft., the engine noise was not as great as that of many motor-cars and

By means of a short wave radio set this parachute jumper told of his sensations during a two mile drop.

When flying at a height of 2,500ft. the aircraft was inaudible.

The demonstration was followed with keen interest by a technical expert from the Air Ministry research station at Farnborough and by representatives of the leading manufacturers of engines for our warplanes.

Private firms and Government experts in all parts of the world have for years been attempting to solve the problem of silent engines for the benefit of passengers in civil aircraft, and more urgently to produce raiding machines that do not reveal their presence through noise.

Defence against hostile aircraft largely depends on warning of their approach being flashed to headquarters from listening posts equipped with sound detectors though the raiders may be hidden by cloud.

Those who operate modern sound detectors confess that it is often difficult to locate with any accuracy aircraft with open exhausts flying at 10,000ft.

How much more difficult will it be to check craft flying at 20,000ft. with silenced engines?

Such raiders would be as silent as night birds, though travelling at three miles a minute.

The silencer has been developed by Messrs. C. G. Vokes, Ltd., of Putney, and has been tested at Farnborough and by Messrs. Rolls-Royce, Ltd., who make very many of the engines used in our day and night bombers.

HELPLESS DEFENCE.

One of the biggest problems facing experts has been how to obtain silence without loss of power, and the new apparatus has almost achieved this—the loss on the biggest type of engine yet tested being only from two to three per cent.

The principle of the silence is to turn the pulsating movements of the exhaust gases under pressure into a steady stream. Although the gases run "straight through" and do not come up against baffles, they do not come in contact with the outer casing, so that all "tunny," "drumming," or "running down" noises are prevented.

If research solves the parallel problems of diminishing aircraft noise and vibrational noises from wind buffeting is successful, the era of the perfectly silent aeroplane is at hand.

The only adequate form of defence then will be "offensive defence," by means of squadrons of day and night bombers. Searchlights and anti-aircraft guns will be almost helpless.

It would be possible for silent warplanes to cross the coast at 200 m.p.h., drop their bombs over London, and be well on their way back within half an hour, while gun crews stood wondering where the invaders were.

DAWN OF NEW ERA

BATHING MACHINE IS DOOMED

KING'S SHELTER A TOOL SHED

The news that Deal is converting her last dozen bathing machines into hen roosts is a reminder of an end-of-the-season seaside job that will soon belong to the past. Deal at least will no longer have to drag back her once indispensable bathing machines to a sheltered spot for their hibernation. The lament of the Deal beach man that "with the free and easy customs of to-day machines are no use" is echoed, more or less loudly at

Even Weymouth, which probably has the most formidable surviving array of bathing machines, has lost faith in them to the extent that it has allowed the most famous bathing machine in the world, the one from which George III. bathed to the accompaniment of "God Save the King" (played by a band in an adjoining machine), to fall from its high estate. Up to the time of the war it was always kept in its place of honour at the extreme right of the line, and when the machines were withdrawn to Loddmoor for the winter the arms were removed and put away until the following season. But this historic machine, in common with others, has had its wheels taken off and has become a tool-shed. It is said that in the early days of Blackpool the ladies on a wet Sunday used to be taken to church in bathing machines, but at any rate this was respectful misuse!

WHEN SEA BATHING BEGAN.

Before bathing machines became completely obsolete, some remembrance of their inventor and as a part played in the development of the seaside would not be out of place, the more so as this time of the bathing machine's collapse is also the time of its bicentenary, in so far as this can be fixed. When sea bathing itself began has never been determined. Lecky mentions Lord Chesterfield's surprise at seeing bathing at Scarborough in 1733, and there is no doubt that the construction of a new harbour at Scarborough in 1734 made room for bathing facilities which gave a fillip to the pastime. An engraving of 1735 shows people bathing there from a shelter on the beach or from covered rowing boats. By 1737 a bathing machine had appeared at Scarborough.

But there is evidence that the original bathing machine had been introduced at Margate two or three years earlier, and indeed, the probability is that it is exactly 200 years ago since Benjamin Beale, his Quaker soul vexed by the indecorum of what he saw on Margate sands, bethought himself of the wonderful horse-drawn caravans which was to make sea-bathing consonant with decency.

DATE CAN BE FIXED.

The evidence for this is rather interesting. All the scraps of information, except the latest, about Beale, assign a later date to his discovery. C. H. Woodruff, in the "Home Counties Magazine" in 1902, gave 1753, and this is supported by a reference to the Margate machines in 1754 as "curiosities." However, a couple of years ago Sir Ambrose Heal made a discovery at the Society of Antiquaries which showed that Beale's machine was being used in 1736, and was probably invented a year or two earlier. He came across some manuscript notes and drawings in the society's copy of a book called "Antiquities of the Isle of Thanet," by the Rev. John Lewis, of Margate. They were made by Joseph Ames, a friend of Lewis's, and include a sketch of a bathing machine identical with the one which appears on the copy of Beale's trade card in the British Museum, and a description of the invention. Ames had already made a drawing of Margate which appeared in the book itself, and presumably his object in making this sketch was to give an up-to-date picture of Margate, including the new bathing machine. Ames' note of the year in which he made this sketch is "173—" but, provokingly, the last numeral is torn off. As he went down to Margate to get a copy of the new book, however, it is exceedingly probable that the year was 1736.

DESCRIPTION OF A MACHINE.

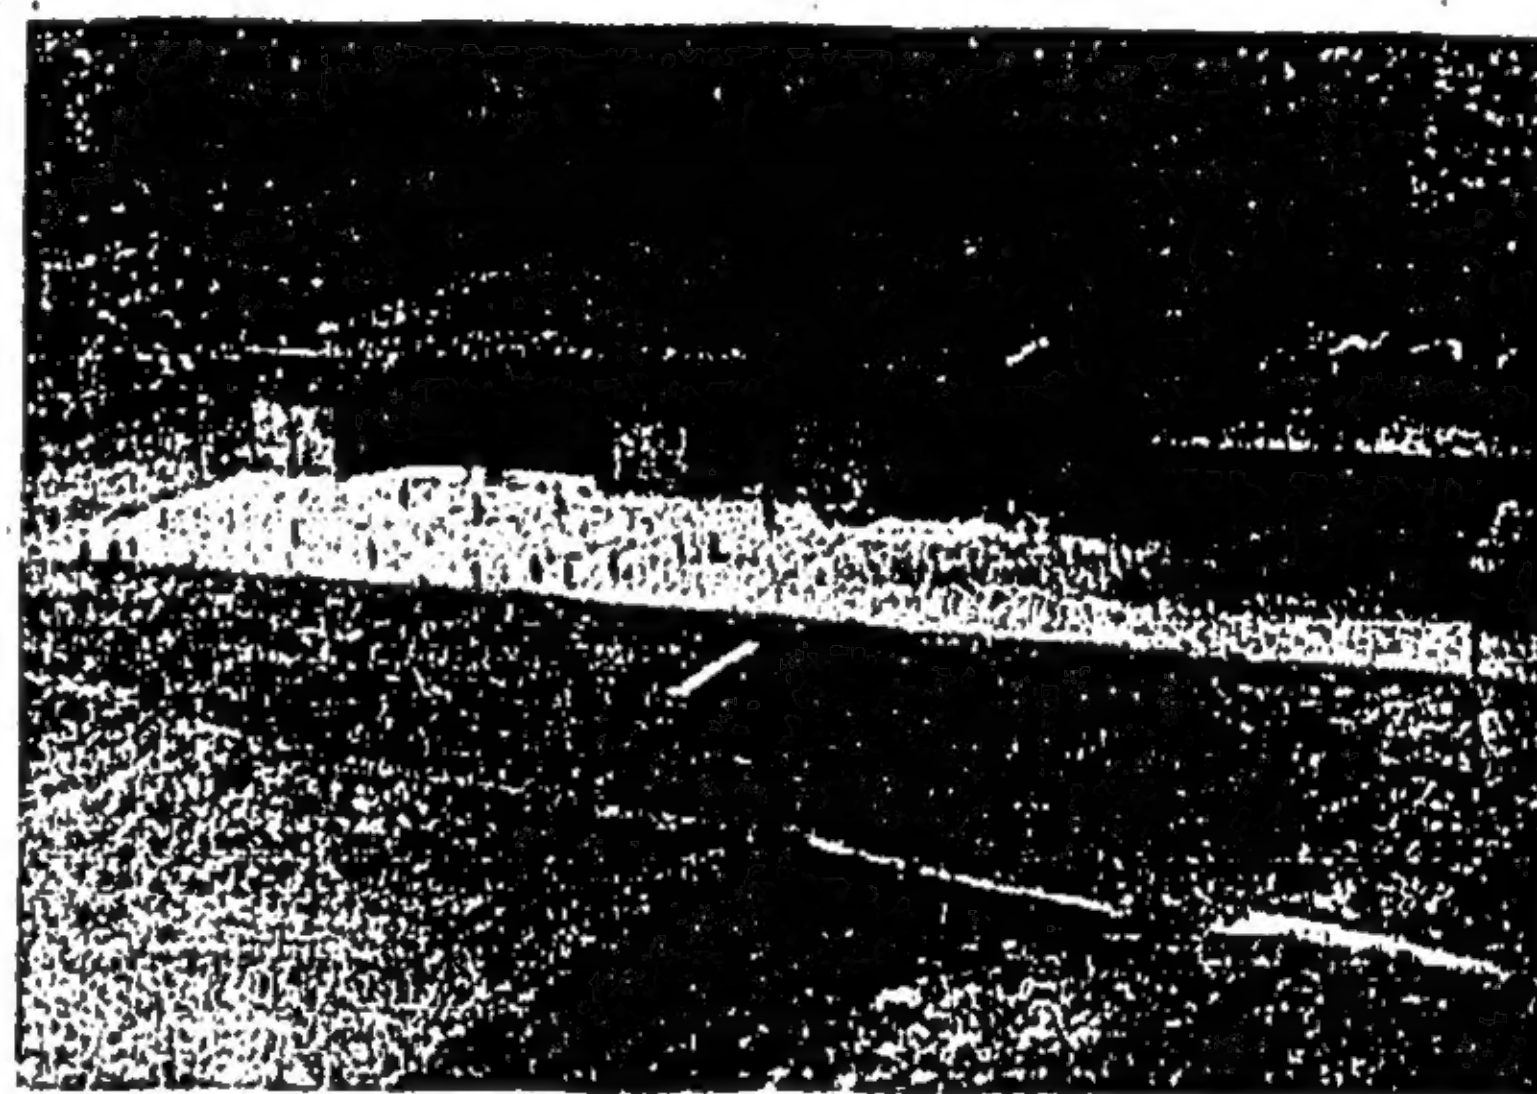

Here is Ames' description of the machine:—"It contains a room to undress and dress in, with a space to go down to the sea, and it will hold five or six people. There are men and women guides who, if desired attend. The price is 4s. a week, or £1 ls. for six weeks, and you pay a guide for every attendance. They drive into the sea until the machine is out breast high, and then let down a screen, which prevents being seen, and under which you go down the steps into a fine sandy bottom."

In later machines there was a fireplace with chimney, so that the bather, in his silvery flannel envelopment, might warm himself. The Victorian machines, daring by

we live on an island, why should we lack for an excellent cold bath," but it was Beale who showed how the thing might be done. If the seaside resorts celebrate the bicentenary of the bathing machine, as well they might next year, we shall inevitably poke fun at the way Beale protected his bathers from prying eyes; but if he had not done so bathing might not have developed at all. In any case, the invention served six generations.

jamin Beale is that the invention dispensed with the lengthy screen at the end, which enabled the bather to get into the sea and out again without being seen at all. Also they were smaller.

So little is known of Benjamin Beale that, though there are a dozen Beales in the Dictionary of National Biography, he is not one of them. And yet he made bathing practicable. Dr. Richard Russell might extol sea water, Sir John Floyer might exclaim, "Since

ALL THE FUN OF THE FAIR

TAIT'S CARNIVAL SUCCESS

Old and young alike are catered for in the galaxy of entertainment provided by Tait's Carnival which this week-holiday its familiar tents on the vacant plot against the Peninsula Hotel.

There are more attractions than ever in this year's programme and the number of people who have availed themselves of an unusual opportunity for gaiety of the English village fair type and the more up-to-date novelties, augurs well for the remainder of Tait's stay in the Colony.

The popular "Dodgems" drew their usual large number of enthusiasts, while others flocked to "Leaping Lena" and the Big Wheel. The Merry-Go-Round, the Slide, and the Wall of Death received their well deserved patronage, while Tarzan and the Hula dancers gave exhibitions both thrilling and weird.

Perhaps one of the outstanding events of each evening is the big diving act in which Peejay Higgins does a back somersault from a 100 feet high pole into a ridiculously small tank of water. He is accompanied by a lady partner who also dives from the pole at a lower point.

Numerous side shows and minor attractions are provided in one of the best carnival efforts which Tait's have yet presented for the delectation of the Colony's pleasure seekers.

BIG MONEY FOR BABE RUTH

New York, Nov. 1. Ray L. Doan, the sports promoter, announced that he had cabled an offer of $36,000 to Babe Ruth to play for his House of David bearded baseball team next season.

The Club travels as an independent organisation, whiskers and all. But Doan says Ruth won't be required to stop shaving.

HARBOUR MISHAP SAMPAK SINKS: MAN DROWNED

While conveying a number of passengers from a steamer, yesterday morning, a sampak, No. 634V, was overtaken by a sudden squall, when off Stonecutters, and sank. The passengers and crew were all rescued by a motor-boat George Bing No. 5, with the exception of one man, who was drowned. His body was later recovered.

EMPIRE AERIAL SERVICES

Speed Not The Only Factor

London, Nov. 1.

The Under-Secretary for Air, Sir Philip Sassoon, in reply to questions in Parliament, said proposals for curtailing the times taken by existing Empire air services had been under consideration for several months.

He could not make any statement at present, but wished to infer that, important as is the speed factor in commercial air transport, other considerations, such as safety, reliability, regularity and comfort, had also to be taken into account.

As an instance he cited the London-Paris route, where, despite the fact that a foreign line had been re-equipped with faster machines, Imperial Airways had carried three times more passengers in the last three months. Compared with the same period last year, Imperial Airways' passengers on that route had increased, while those of the foreign line had decreased by nearly 30 per cent.—British Wireless.

THE DISARMAMENT OUTLOOK

London, Nov. 1.

The President of the Disarmament Conference, Mr. Arthur Henderson, has been studying with the Secretary General of the League, M. Avenol, who is at present in London, the future course of the Disarmament Conference.

The Secretary of the Conference in the course of a recent visit to Paris, on Mr. Henderson's behalf, had been in touch with the Vice-President of the Conference, M. Politis, representative of his Government and of certain other Powers, and was able to lay his information before the President.

This morning at the Foreign Office, Mr. Henderson met in informal consultation the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, and Mr. Eddy, as representing the United Kingdom. Later, taking advantage of their presence in London, the President also met Messrs. Norman Davis and Hugh Wilson, as representatives of the United States.

Mr. Henderson intends in a few days to make a communication to members of the Bureau of the Conference containing his suggestions as to the future course of its proceedings.—British Wireless.

a charge upon the 55 per cent. earmarked for current trade purposes. Sondermarks will be liquidated within three months.

At the outset foreign exchange certificates for the import of United Kingdom goods into Germany will be issued without restriction, but the German Government after consultation with the British Government may temporarily restrict the issue of such certificates. But in exercising this control they will give special consideration to exports of Germany which are particularly important to the British, namely coal and coke, herrings, yarns, tissues and textile manufactures.

The German Government further agrees that it will continue, as from January 1 next to pay full interest on bonds of the Dawes and Young Loans in beneficial ownership of British holders on June 15 last and will offer to British holders of Non-Relief Loans 4 per cent. funding bonds guaranteed by the German Government and exempt from transfer restrictions, on the understanding that British holders who accept this offer take the funding bonds in full settlement of any coupons funded.

Mr. Runciman said the agreement reached embodied these arrangements. In case it should not prove successful provision had been made for its replacement by a clearing arrangement. The agreement was the best possible in the circumstances but he did not suggest it would remove all difficulties in the way of Anglo-German trade and he advised exporters to continue to proceed with caution.—British Wireless.

Injured by splintered glass from a windshield, Robert Urquhart, third engineer of the s.s. Glauca at the Taitao Dock, yesterday, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital.

ARMS TRAFFIC

The British Government has
cause for satisfaction in the fact that the lead which it took in urging an international agreement
to prevent the supply of arms to Paraguay and Bolivia
has resulted in all the arms-
manufacturing nations approached by the League of Nations
Committee agreeing to enforce
the embargo. The development
is all the more gratifying from
the fact that there are no reservations laid down with regard to
the execution of current contracts. The recent Arms Inquiry in Washington threw a great deal of light on the traffic
in death-dealing weapons and it should not be long before a considered report is issued, when it will be possible to form final conclusions on the subject. Even at this stage, however, some general impression can be gained
of what has been revealed so far
by the inquiry. For example, it is to be noted that the private
arms industry appears to be truly "international" in its policy. Not only does each individual firm carry its trade to
the ends of the earth, and in search of profit sell its goods
indifferently to both sides in an actual or possible conflict. But it is also international in its
readiness to form cartels and to unite with competing firms,
when it pays to do so, in order to keep up market prices. This method of business is common of course in a greater or less degree
to all industries; but as the customers of armament firms
are invariably Governments,
there is surely something peculiarly sinister in the evidence
which has been given of the bribery, open or covert,
successful or unsuccessful, of Government officials that seems to be its generally recognised
practice. Another point has also become clear. The orthodox defence of the manufacture of
arms for private profit is that in times of peace the firms so engaged are saving the Government and taxpayer from the need
of maintaining its own arsenals,
and in times of war their plant
and their expert skill can be used
at once for the enormous expen-

NOTES OF THE DAY

DANGER POINT

The newest danger point in Europe is the Saar. Germany
wants it back again, and the Nazis
have been behaving in a manner
which has aroused suspicion—
especially French suspicion—that a putch of some sort may be attempted prior to the plebiscite on January 13, 1935. On that date
the people of the Saar are to vote
on a straight-forward ballot: Do
you wish to remain under League
of Nations administration, or do
you wish to return to Germany?
It is simple enough. If left alone,
the people of the Saar would decide the issue for themselves, and
without much hard feeling one way or another. Unfortunately,
however, certain elements have been at work stirring up antagonisms and the situation has become more and more complicated, and more threatening. So great is the French distrust of the position
that two full army corps are ready
to march into the region if there is any sign of Nazi terrorism.
The French troops could be in occupation in two hours, they claim. The repercussions of an attempted Nazi coup would be most grave in these circumstances.

VITAL QUESTIONS

The vital questions which the League of Nations officials are asking one another seem to be:
Will it be possible for Saar inhabitants to vote in safety and in secret? Can the Governing Commission of the League carry on until then, and be strong enough
to ensure an orderly plebiscite, in view of the campaign of intimadation liable to be carried on within the region and directed by Nazis
in Germany? Such questions are not unreasonable in the light of recent developments in the Saar. At the beginning of the year, Nazi
organisations headed by the Deutsche Front had interfered so seriously with administration that
the League Council was faced in January with unexpected difficulties in preparing for the plebiscite
and a Special Committee of three,
headed by Baron Aloisi of Italy,
was appointed to determine the best and safest means of holding the plebiscite. Meanwhile, the Nazis were broadcasting, from Frankfurt and other stations vilify-
ing the Governing Commission and attacking Roman Catholics and Socialists, their opponents in the Saar. German statesmen threatened reprisals on those unsympathetic to Herr Hitler when
the Saar returned to Germany.
The Deutsche Front attempted to
supercede the Commission, representing to the League that only
it could guarantee a safe and secret vote. There were hostile
demonstrations against Socialists,
Communists and French visitors
and the Saar police refused to act.
More recently both French and German Governments gave an un-taking that they would not attempt
to interfere with the plebiscite.
Peace was in sight.

NOT FOR LONG

It was soon apparent, however,
that the Deutsche Front was working with Nazis in Germany to deter
opposition of pro-Germanism.
There were black-lists and more
promises of reprisals, and the situation in the Saar was stated in colourful language by Herr Hitler himself, when he said: "In spite of oppression,
trickery, terror, want and misery
the German people of the Saar
have for fifteen years carried on a heroic and unprecedented fight for their German Fatherland." A continuation of this sort of propagandising has caused resentment in France, in the League
and in the Saar itself. Out of it grows the threat of conflict and French intervention.

sion of ammunition-making that
is required. They are, in fact,
it is said, rendering a patriotic
service to their country. The value of this argument may be tested in the light of such evidence as was wrung from Mr.
Young, of the American Federal Laboratories Company. He
knew that "a large part of our national defence policy is based on the possibility of war with Japan"—and yet was quite willing to sell munitions to Japan
and at a proper price the formulae and instructions for use of his Company's gases. Comment
is unnecessary. The Covenant
of the League of Nations declares the manufacture by private enterprise of the munitions of war to be "open to grave
objections". This inquiry, like many before it, is showing what those objections are. Surely all persons—except possibly shareholders—would gladly support
their Governments if they proposed the absolute prohibition
of this particular business.

ONLY ROAD TO SAFETY
IN FLYING

By AMY MOLLISON

NO official reports have yet been published on the recent air
disasters, but it is in any event
unlikely that the real causes of
the accidents will ever be known.
This is unfortunate, for to know
the reason for any trouble is the first step towards curing it.

However, one can always speculate on the probable causes, and by
a process of elimination reduce the number to one or two of the most likely.

The real cause of any accident
must lie, broadly speaking, in one
of two directions: failure of material or failure of the human element to cope with the emergency.

The causes commonly labelled as
"Acts of God" are so rare that they need not be considered. In any event they can't be helped; but all others could be prevented if we knew what was wrong.

Much is talked about our having
too many regulations, but my own
view is that though the private individual should be allowed to do
as he likes with his own life, the moment other people's lives are involved wise restrictions should be enforced.

In the aviation world rules and regulations abound. They are supposed to be all safety precautions, but whether the Government
guards the public at large as zealously and effectively as it plays nurserymaid to would-be youthful pilots is a moot point. Aircraft
manufacturers and technical experts say "No."

The editor of one of our best-
known aviation technical magazines, noted for its extreme views,
which in this case, however, have
a constructive trend, recently
made the following sweeping condemnation of the Air Ministry
system of aircraft inspection—

"Many times in this paper we
have drawn attention to the fact
that, although the stamp of the Aeronautical Inspection Directorate is a half-mark which guarantees
that the material and workmanship
in an aeroplane is all that it should be, the Air Ministry's Airworthi-
ness Certificate, which is based on stress calculations and aerodynamic
qualifications, is useless."

"The question that everybody
concerned with the progress of
aviation should ask those in authority is: How much longer are we
and other nations going to keep up
this farce of certifying an aero-plane is airworthy when, in fact, it is not?"

He goes on to repeat emphatic-ly that
"The fallacy of the whole principle
of certification is shown by the fact
that perfectly airworthy aeroplanes
are disqualified, either, because their calculations do not please the
self-appointed scientists or because
they will not pass certain flying
tests which in the judgment of competent operators of aircraft are unnecessarily."

"In spite of all our stress calculations, aeroplanes which are passed
as airworthy fall to pieces in the air."

It is fairly generally known that every aeroplane, before it is allowed to fly for any purpose whatever (except, of course, testing), must have a Certificate of Airworthiness
issued by the Air Ministry.

To qualify for this certificate all
aeroplanes, no matter of what size,
or shape, or for what purpose they
are intended, must pass certain uniform tests.

That the tests are exactly the same for all aircraft surely points
to a complete lack of vision. The strain put upon an aeroplane used
for continuous aerobatics is in some degree different from that imposed on an ordinary commercial air-liner which makes nothing
but the gentlest of turns, or the machine used for joy riding, which spends most of its time being bumped over rough ground where
the strain and vibration are much greater than in the air.

Yet all these differing types are judged, approved, or disapproved
by the same tests.

There are nowadays a large number of safety devices available,
but practically none of them is
made compulsory in our air-liners.

For example, it is admitted that multi-engined machines are safer,
especially for land machines crossing stretches of water, but there is no regulation to the effect that paying passengers must be protected in such an obvious way.

Again, there are on the market
reliable controllable-pitch propellers which, besides increasing the performance of an aircraft, offer
an added margin of safety to the
take-off.

These propellers, by utilising a low pitch corresponding to the low
gear of a car, enable a plane to be lifted off the ground much more quickly than with any other kind
of propeller.

This is so obviously an advantage, especially in taking off full loads from water-logged aerodromes, or flying straight off into fog where unseen obstacles have to be cleared which are normally skirted, that the Air Ministry's
attitude towards these propellers
is hard to understand.

I was told on very good authority
that the Air Ministry propeller expert remarked that in his opinion
they were of no practical use.

The De Havilland Aircraft Company, who built the "Comet" for the Australia race, have definitely stated that without controllable-
pitch propellers they would have
been unable to secure adequate
performance in the race while at
the same time conforming to the Air Ministry's compulsory standards of airworthiness.

Aids to flying through bad
weather are now perfected so that there is no excuse whatever for a normal aeroplane piloted by a qualified pilot and carrying wireless and blind-flying instruments
to get out of control in clouds.

Yet there is no regulation making the carrying of such equipment compulsory in our air-liners,
nor are the pilots required to have any training in blind-flying technique.

Air Ministry regulations are obsolete and are not adequate to cope with present conditions.
They should immediately be brought up to date before we have
more avoidable accidents.

The official findings as to causes
of accidents should be made public, and an assurance given
that everything possible will be done to avoid similar occurrences
in the future.

A few days ago I flew on a demonstration flight of the new

Spectacular Show At Sookunpoo

Opening in dramatic fashion with a salvo of guns and a fanfare of trumpets, the Grand Tattoo staged by the military forces at Sookunpoo last night was carried through in perfect manner, the display being worthy of the best traditions of the Army.

A large and distinguished gathering included H.E. the G.O.C., Major General O. C. Borrett, C.M., C.B.E., D.S.O., who attended with his wife, and Capt. J. J. Abbott, A.D.C., and a party of friends.

Sookunpoo presented a spectacular appearance with its green sward representing the arena for martial conflicts; its pavilion overtopped by a medieval castle and frowned upon by a skilful representation of the City of Moscow.

Throughout the programme soldiers in the costumes of long-past periods bore banners and trumpets into the music fray while the stirring music of massed bands made striking contrast to the whoops of Indians in dancing and warlike postures.

The heroic defence of Rorke's Drift, in which the South Wales Borderers gained undying glory in the Zulu War, was fittingly portrayed by men of the same regiment.

There followed a picturesque torchlight parade by the 1st Bn. the Punjab Regiment, the darkness adding an eerie aspect to the scene.

The bands of the Lincoln, South Wales Borderers, and the East Lancashire, under Bandmaster Trow, gave all that music could do to embellish the magnificent effect, their performances in the burning of the City of Moscow being outstanding.

"A Military Fantasy" was another effective item and praise cannot be withheld from the Loch Ness monster interlude which drew rows of laughter from the crowd.

In contrast to the old-time acts was an excellent exhibition of physical drill by picked men of the Lincoln.

The beating of the tattoo—an essential part of the programme—was thrillingly done and gave opportunity for a lavish display of marching and counter marching.

The Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps were given the chance of showing the public modern warfare conditions, and their celebrity and efficiency were greatly admired.

The M. G. Troop, the Motor Machine Gun Section, and the Armoured Car Section were supplemented by a detachment of Infantry and a battery of the H.K.S.R.A.

Members of the Lam Cho Athletic Society were responsible for the presentation of two Chinese lions at play, an act which symbolises good luck and is usually given at festivals.

The Royal Corps of Signals gave a clever demonstration of control by wireless in the future.

An impressive finale was the community singing of "Land of Hope and Glory," two verses of "Abide with Me," and the National Anthem.

The Tattoo is being repeated to-night and to-morrow and should on no account be missed.

THE OFFICIALS.

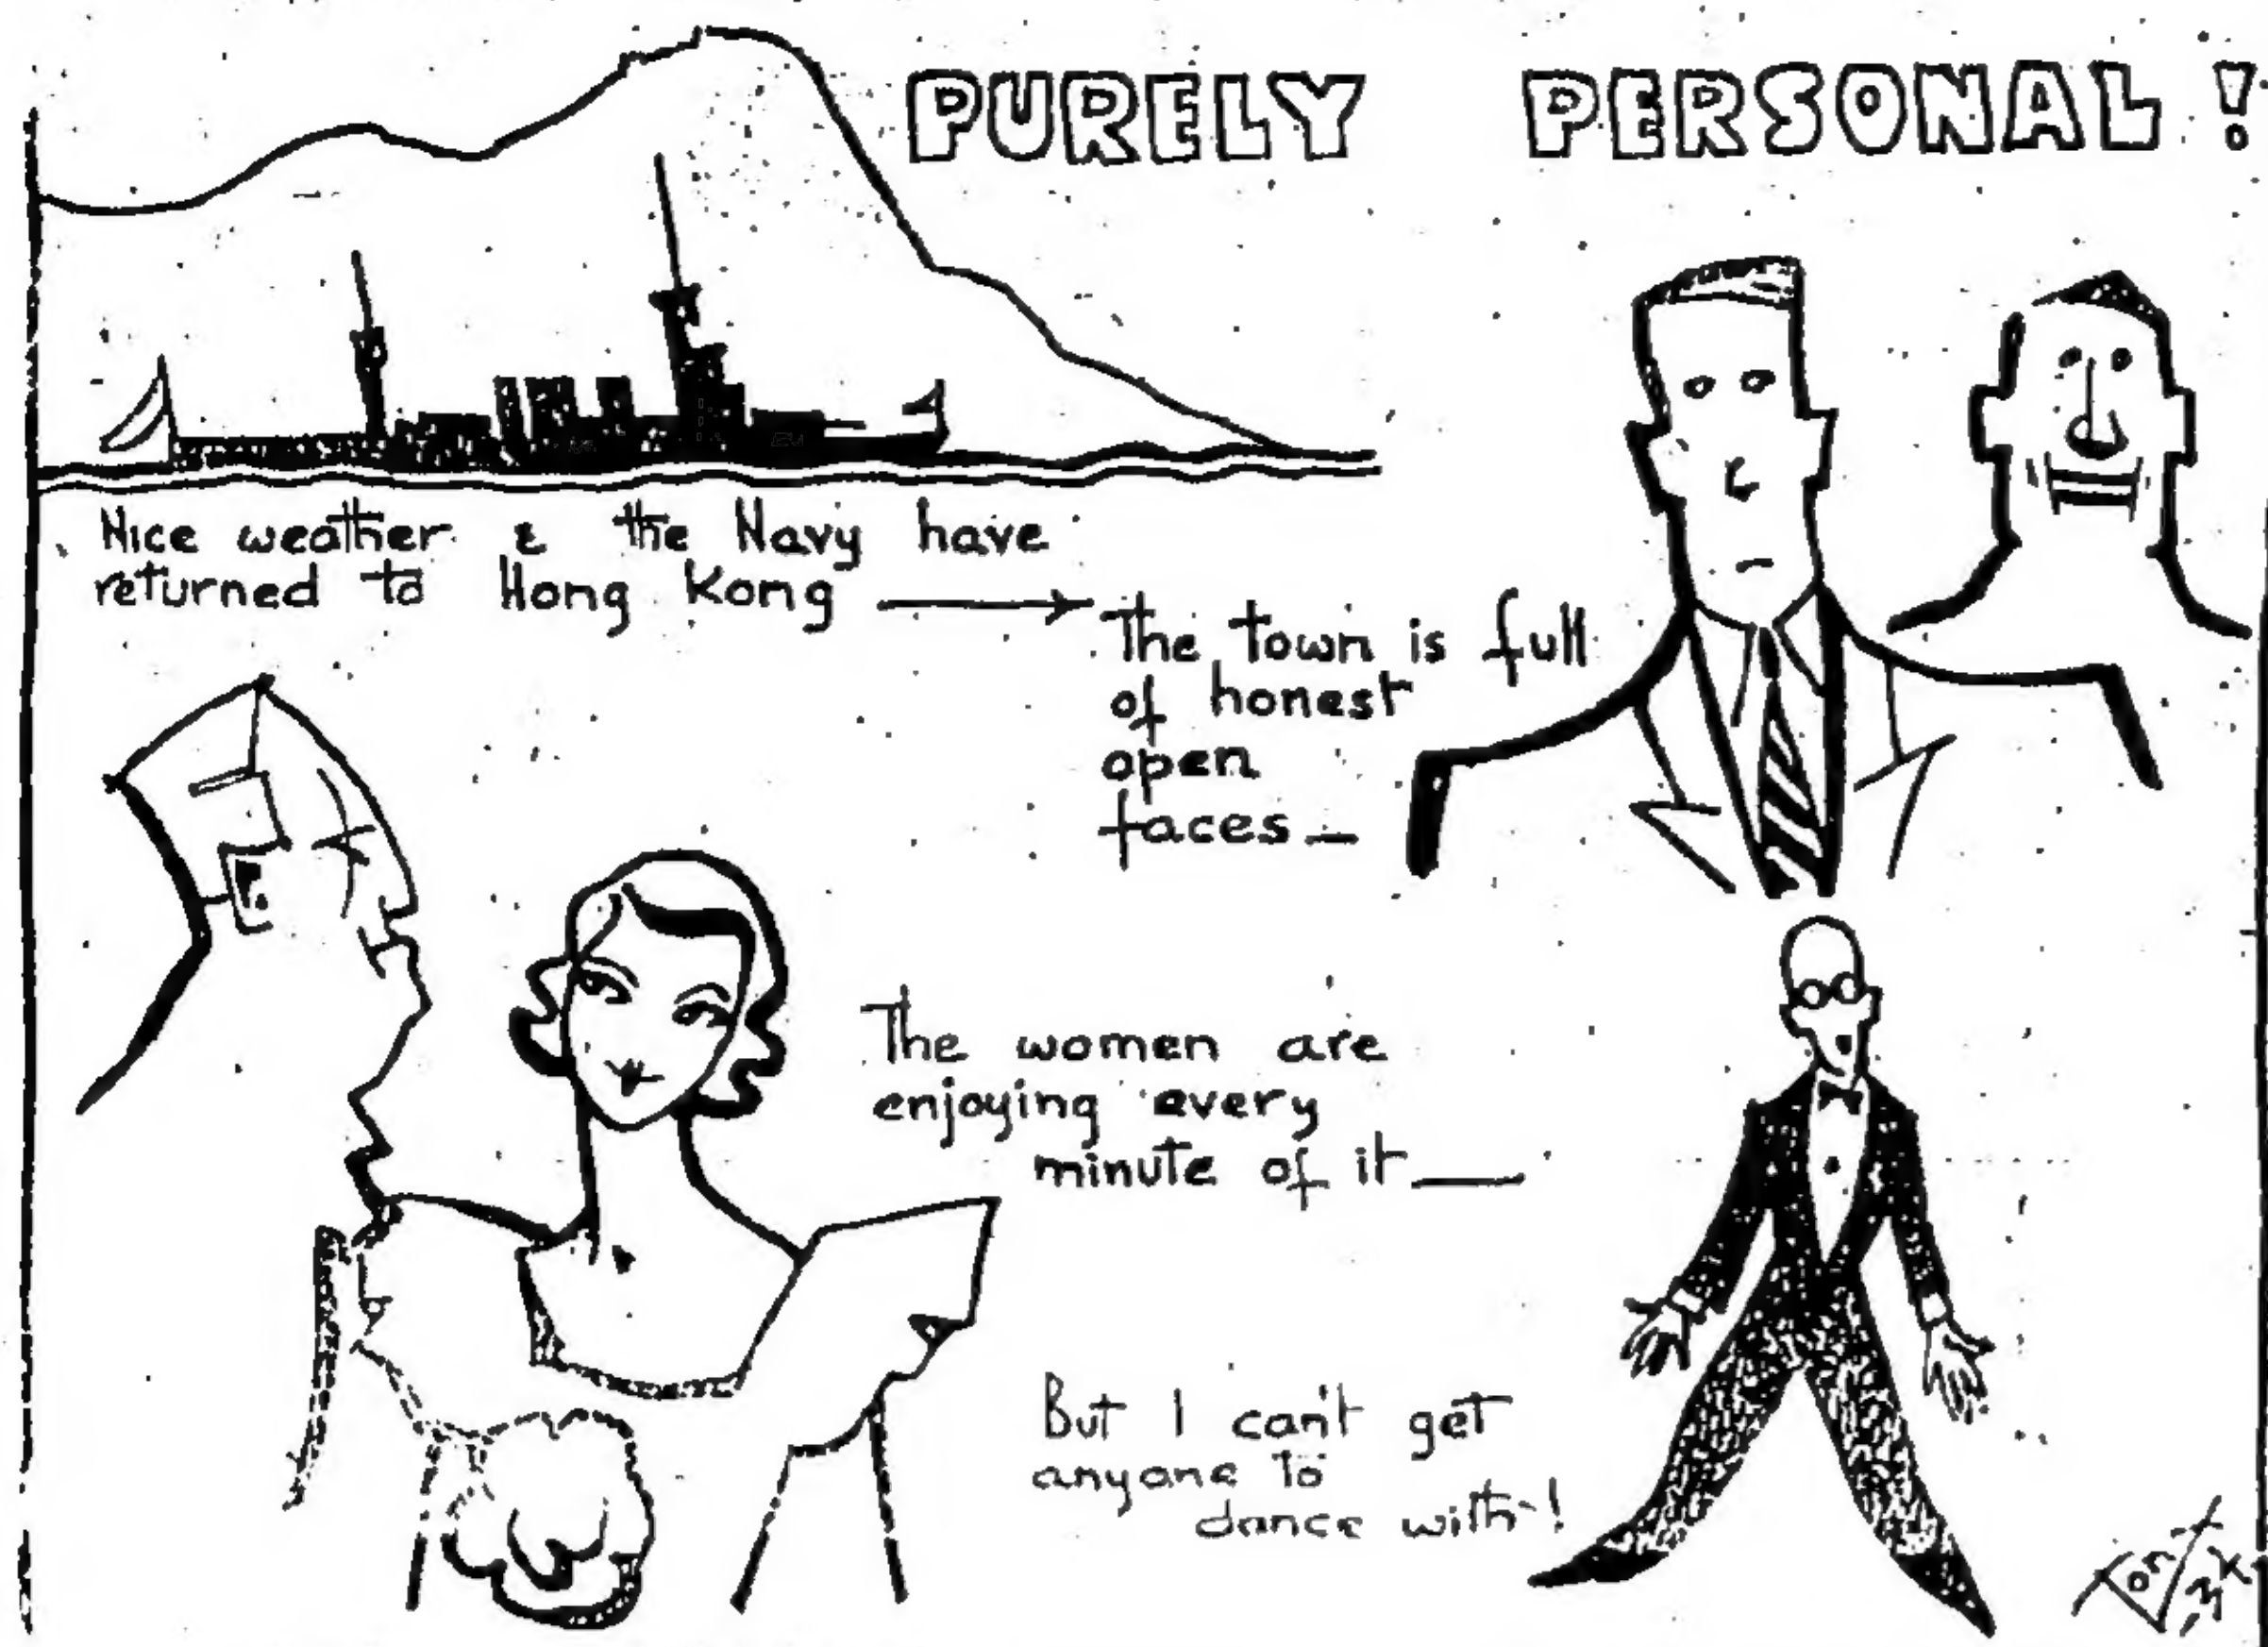

The Officials are: Patron: H. E. Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E.; President: Major General O. C. Borrett, C.M., C.B.E., D.S.O., Commanding British Forces in China; Committee: Col. F. P. Noworthy, D.S.O., M.C. (Chairman); Lt. Col. M. Carrington Sykes, M.C., R.A. (Vice Chairman); Major J. Griffin, D.S.O. (Producer); Col. L. C. Lewis, O.B.E., R.A.C. (Scenery); Major R. L. Doctors, Officers and men of the St. John Ambulance Brigade were in attendance, as well as officers and nurses of the Nursing divisions, their headquarters being at the Ellis Kadoorie School. The medical dressing tent was provided by the Military Authorities.

Stretcher parties were also posted at the motor car approach at the Po Leung Kuk and at the tram and bus stops.

CHINA'S GREAT FUTURE

MME. CHIANG'S HOPE FOR PEACE

NEW POLICIES IN POLITICS

Peking, Nov. 2. During an informal chat with foreign newspapermen last evening, Madame Chiang Kai-shek spoke of the pleasure she derived from her recent aerial tour to the north-west of China when she accompanied General Chiang.

She said that among the faults of the past policies in China politics was the gulf which separated the leaders from the people. It was their intention now, she said, to make many more such trips in the future.

She felt that China's greatest hope lay in the new life movement which had been launched with the object of preserving the best of China's ancient culture which the country so greatly needed.

The co-operation of foreign missionaries had been enlisted because they were close to the people and able to help the movement. She predicted that China had every chance of some day becoming the greatest nation in the world, possibly within ten years' time, given a period of peace and prosperity which she felt was now assured. —Reuter.

JONES AND WALLER LEAVE TO-DAY

Melrose Passes Them On Way To Melbourne

Athens, Nov. 1. Cathcart Jones and K. F. H. Waller, who are trying to set a low mark for the London to Melbourne and return flight delayed at Athens to-night and will leave to-morrow for England.

The delay was occasioned by the difficulty in obtaining proper fuel supplies, but it was certain that the airmen would have a sufficient quantity of petrol by morning.

four-engined Fokker. This is a very fast, extremely comfortable modern air-liner. It cruises at 174 miles an hour and carries 32 passengers.

It is to be used on the Batavia run, where flying will be done by night as well as by day in order to save still more time.

Passengers will have sleeping berths, which is an innovation in Europe, although the practice has been pursued for some time in the United States with a high degree of success.

I tried the controls of this enormous plane, expecting it would take more than my strength to operate them, but found the wheel and rudder bar as easy to move as in any light aeroplane.

Fatally injured through a fall from the second floor verandah of No. 3 West Street, Quarry Bay an 8-year-old girl, Chey Chan, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday, where she died.

ENGLISH TALKS.

HONGKONG BRANCH OF THE ASSOCIATION

On Tuesday next, November 6, the Hongkong branch of the English Association starts its activities for a new session. His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, who is president, has kindly consented to preside at the opening meeting.

The English Association is a world-wide Society, and its object is to arrange meetings of people interested in English literature and the English language. It has members of every nationality, race and creed, who find a common interest in the study and discussion of literary topics or linguistic problems. The headquarters of the central body is in London, and there are local branches in every city of culture throughout the English-speaking world. The Hongkong branch is now beginning its sixth year. It holds regular monthly meetings, from November to April, on the first Tuesday of each month. Each meeting takes the form of a lecture and a discussion.

Membership of the local branch has always, during these five years,

"TELEGRAPH" ART SUPPLEMENT

Tatoo Pictures To-morrow

Amongst a large and varied selection of illustrations in to-morrow's issue of the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement will be interesting pictures, taken at night, of the Military Tattoo.

Weddings illustrated will include those of Mr. W. Stoker and Miss Betty Moss, Mr. C. E. Cocho and Miss Ellen Sullivan, and Mr. Ma Yuen-chang and Miss Lee Oi-ming.

There will be some interesting pictures of salvage work by H.M.S. Cornwall in the Chinese naval launch Hai Tsun which foundered off Weihaiwei recently, whilst groups will include the Inter-Varsity sports champions, the Arts Association of the Hongkong University, and Queen's College swimming team.

A photograph showing progress on the new gaol at Stanley will also appear.

amounted to between eighty and a hundred. Of these some twenty or thirty have also become members of the central body, which establishes a link with literary activities at home, and those who join the central body receive copies of pamphlets and bulletins which are published throughout the year. For this central membership, there is an extra charge of five dollars in addition to the local subscription of three dollars.

The Helena May Institute, where meetings are held, kindly offers to cater for tea-parties in the lecture hall. Those who mean to take tea are asked to order it from the Matron of the Institute (Tel. No. 22100) the day before the meeting, so that a table may be arranged for them.

Tuesday's meeting will begin with the annual business of approving accounts and electing office-bearers. There will then be a lecture on "Naive Prose" by Mr. G. Sims. Old members who wish to continue their membership, and new members who wish to join, have no formalities to go through, other than handing in their names and subscriptions, which can be done most conveniently at the meetings.

The extraordinary general meeting convened to effect the voluntary winding up of the Hongkong Flying Club, has been postponed for a second time owing to absence of a quorum. Included in the business on the agenda was a resolution to retain the surplus funds of the Club until such time as a similar Club is formed or, failing such formation within one year, to hand the funds to the Government.

It took Chevrolet to find a way to blot out destructive vibration without running into other difficulties. With the cushion-balanced engine mounting Chevrolet not only stops vibration from reaching the body, it keeps the engine steady. The whole car is free from wearing, tearing movement. GOOD RACE PROGRAMME AT HAPPY VALLEY TO-MORROW

FINE GALLOPING COURSE ASSURED

Close Finishes Promised - In Almost All Events

NO OUTSTANDING PONY

(By "Captain Foster")

A good galloping course is assured for to-morrow's racing at Happy Valley. The Card consists of eight races and the Meeting promises to be an exciting one, with close finishes in the majority of the events. Judge Tester will, I think, have a busy time separating the ponies as they go past the winning post.

I cannot definitely name a sure winner, there being no outstanding pony in any race unless we consider Electric Star for the Hongkong Griffins Cup. Here again I do not make her a certainty. In these circumstances I would counsel caution, as it does not seem to me to be a day in which one can attend the races with betting boots on.

SUSSEX HANDICAP.

Although there are eleven entries for this race of six furlongs, I think we should concentrate on Bold Commander, Chesterfield, In Good Time, Little Beauty and the Bodega. I think the winner and placed ponies will be found amongst them. On his recent running, the Bodega appeals to me as a safe each way bet, and I am inclined to pick him as the winner. Bold Commander ran a good honest pony at Macau last Sunday and there is no reason why he should not give as good a display to-morrow. If he does, I make him most dangerous. In Good Time and Little Beauty are good, and either of them can very easily be returned the winner. Chesterfield is another pony that, can, on his best running, cause an upset by catching the judge's eye first. He is fast over a short distance.

NULAH NULAH PLATE.

We shall be treated to a good race and an exciting finish in this sprint confined to Australian ponies. I do not think we shall see more than seven starters, and feel that the ponies concerned with the finish will be Nell Gwyn, Bronze Era, Saucy Face and Night Star. I hesitate to name the winner as I feel that the luck of the race will be the deciding factor. Nell Gwyn, however, has the best credentials: she is looking well and moving nicely. On a good course I am prepared to see the record lowered, as the ponies I imagine, will go "flat out" from the start. Bronze Era will offer a stiff challenge to Nell Gwyn, but whether he will be able to maintain the terrific speed at which the race will be run is a debatable point. Saucy Face has a strong rush and she may be up with the leaders at the finish. I was particularly impressed with the running of Night Star on her last outing. She was none too lucky then but good as she is—I am afraid the other three ponies I have named are just a little too good for her. She is, however, very game, and therefore I shall not be surprised

HONGKONG GRIFFINS CUP.

It looks as if we shall see a small but select field for this race. Half of the entrants, however, do not appear to be genuine middle distance runners. On form, Electric Star shows up the best of all the ponies but it is problematical whether she will stay the course in a fast run race. She has class and for this reason I am inclined to tip her. Neither Gladstair nor King's Fancy can be described as mile and a quarter ponies at the moment, but they also possess class. Ribble and Soldier of China can be relied on to stay the course. Last Wednesday morning, Ribble put up a most satisfactory gallop over 1½ miles. The total time was 3-36, last mile 2-12, last ½ mile under 1-03, finishing in 30 seconds. Soldier of Germany will also be a competitor. I expect to see an interesting race but, as it will be an event full of possibilities, backers should act warily.

KENT HANDICAP.

A good field will muster for this event. Valorous has been allotted top weight. Frankly I do not think he can win carrying 165 lbs. Budge has been off colour lately but if he can produce a semblance of his form of last Spring, I make him most dangerous, the more so, in view of his light weight of 140 lbs. Jungle Jim, I thought, won his race last time out somewhat easily, and there is no reason why he should not again win. The Tiger, Racing Boy, Flying Tourist, Wayward Stag and Wonderful Stag should be carefully considered but, perhaps, the distance may be a little short for Wonderful Stag. Of these five ponies I favour The Tiger and Racing Boy. These two can be depended upon to put up a good race. Lemberg at 168 lbs should not be forgotten, nor should Daylight Eve at 140 lbs and Pride of Tsingtao at 150 lbs. Spinaway, a recently demoted pony, may also figure prominently at the finish. A good race will doubtless be witnessed, and it is safe to say that the winner will return a good dividend, if not the best during the afternoon.

SUFFOLK HANDICAP.

style at the moment and—in my opinion—a safe each way bet. No Fear, Fi Fa, Burgomaster, Chivalrous and Warrington will all show up at the finish. The capabilities of these ponies are well known to you and therefore require no elaboration from me.

SURREY HANDICAP.

I am in a dilemma over this race, and finding the winner is almost as difficult as looking for a needle in a haystack. Mr. Dunbar will be starting both Gleneagles and Oak Bay, and I will confess that I have a strong "hunch" for Gleneagles. I saw him move last Tuesday morning, and although the time was slow, he gave me the impression of finishing strongly and well within himself. I prefer him to Oak Bay. King's Bounty is in form but there is an "if" as to whether the distance will not be just beyond his power in this company of good ponies. His stable companion King's Warden rather surprised the talent by covering the mile in 2-10 last Wednesday morning. The last half was negotiated in under 1-02, but I thought he was labouring somewhat at the finish. His chances of finishing one, two or three are bright. Macaroni and Mayflower, in my opinion, can be ignored but, in any case, they can only be considered as place ponies at best. I cannot see either of them finishing in front of the ponies above referred to. Brechin at the weights does not appeal, not even as a place proposition.

SUFFOLK HANDICAP.

(First Section).

The recently demoted ponies Chief Seattle, Glad Eyes and Solar Star, especially the two former ponies, should not be left out of one's calculations. Sandy Bay is also worthy of consideration. West Parade carries top weight and will run well, but I am afraid she is not good enough to tackle the ponies above mentioned. She moved nicely in her gallop last Wednesday morning, and took 1-38 to negotiate three-quarters of a mile. Partnership strikes me as an improving pony.

I make Almerity (if started here) a sound each way proposition. Australian Be can be depended upon to run well, and Empire Day—on her last running—must be considered. Lucy Glitters may run into a place but I cannot see her winning. I have not heard whether Portia is a contender but feel

Girl Golfer In Trousers

OPPONENT UPSET BY "FANCY DRESS"

A young woman golfer caused a sensation at Sencroft, Skegness recently when she went round in tight-fitting, beautifully creased dark blue trousers, strapped under suede shoes to match; a white pullover; a close-fitting blue hat; and white gloves.

She was Miss Gloria Minoprio, who is 23, of Littlestone, Kent. Playing with only one club, she won her first round in the English Women's Golf Championship, beating Miss Betty Somerville, of Faversham, Kent, by 2 up and 1 to play. Her one club was a straight-faced iron with a green painted shaft.

FROWNING WOMEN.

The ensemble, her pale, beautiful face and her stately carriage, made her the centre of attraction, and a big crowd—the women frowning

doubtfully and the men startled by such an unusual personality—followed her match.

It was an ordeal for Miss Somerville, who was playing in her first championship. She was upset by the big crowd and failed to do herself justice.

When I asked if she was not nervous, Miss Somerville said: "I felt dreadful."

"UNUSUAL CLOTHES."

"I felt as though I was 12 years old instead of 22."

"I think it was hard on one to have to play against an opponent who wears such unusual clothes and plays in such a peculiar manner. It was like playing against somebody in fancy dress."

Miss Minoprio has declared that she believes trousers are the most suitable wear for golf and has no intention of changing her mind at present.

that the distance will be too far for her to be concerned with the finish. "Friday is by no means a forlorn hope."

PICK OF GAMES DOWN FOR SUNDAY

SOUTH CHINA "A" EXPECTED TO RETAIN POSITION

(By "Veritas").

Generally speaking, local soccer over the week-end provides little over which to enthuse. One or two interesting ties are due to be played off, but the rest of the programme will more than likely turn out into one-sided affairs.

In the Senior Division at any rate, Sunday is now just as important a day as Saturday. This week for instance, there are six matches down for decision, and three of them will be played to-morrow and the other three on Sunday.

Although they have shown a gradual improvement in their recent games, Kowloon are not expected to lower the colours of the undefeated South China "B". The game will be played on the Kowloon F. C. ground. Cord, the Kowloon custodian, has been absent for the past fortnight. He will return to the ranks to-morrow and will be thoroughly tested by the Chinese sharpshooters. Boys, who has been substituting for Cord, is not nearly up to Cord's standard, but his two displays between the sticks have been quite creditable.

I am afraid the Club will prove too good for the Royal Artillery at Happy Valley, and they should be able to garner both points. The Club's defence is as solid as a rock these days and it takes more than an average forward line to break through it.

Ernie Strange has yet to shoot his first goal this season. In the game between the Club and South China "B" last week, he and Albert Howe were too closely watched to be effective, but I can see Strange's chance to do something to-morrow. Pardee will have to be very good to stop these two.

RECREIO v. NAVY.

Perhaps the most even game of the three will be the Recreio-Navy encounter, which will be played at Caroline Hill. For the Recreio, Beltrao has recovered sufficiently to take back his old position at centre, thus enabling B. Gosano to strengthen the forward line. A. V. Gosano is still on the injured list, I understand, and will not be able to participate.

With several of their ships still away, the Navy have not settled down to their regular team yet. They are improving with every appearance, however, and held the Borderers last week to two goals.

This match should provide the most interesting football for the day, and it is a toss-up, in view of the Navy's uncertain qualities, as to which team will win.

Sunday should provide better fare for football enthusiasts. Some good football should be seen in the games between St. Joseph's and South China "A",

Borderers and Police, and East Lancs. and the Lincolns.

South China's position at the top of the League table will not be endangered by the Collegians, who are deteriorating. South China "A" had a narrow shave against the China Athletic last week, but they will not allow their opponents so much rope this week.

Whether the Borderers-Police match is going to be a good game will depend entirely on the Police. They have the makings of a fine side, but their players seem to be possessed of mercurial qualities. On their day, they are one of the most difficult sides to beat; but when they are off colour, they are one of the worst teams in the League. The Borderers ought to get through without much difficulty.

It is difficult to say which side will win in the game between the East Lancs. and the Lincolns. The latter are not what they were last year, whereas the East Lancs. are beginning to settle down into quite a useful combination. I favour them to beat the Lincolns.

LOCAL SHIELD TIES.

South China have entered two teams for the Senior Shield Competition of the Hongkong Football Association, the first round of which is due to be played during the first week-end in January.

There are altogether twelve teams entered for the Senior Shield, and thirteen for the Junior event. The full list of entries follows: Senior Shield—Royal Artillery, Club de Recreio, South China A. A. "A", South China A. A. "B", Kowloon Football Club, East Lancashire Regiment, St. Joseph's, Hongkong Football Club, Royal Navy, Lincolnshire Regiment, Royal Welsh Fusiliers (who are relieving the South Wales Borderers, holders) and the Hongkong Police.

Junior Shield—Royal Engineers, Royal Artillery, Club de Recreio, South China A. A., Kowloon Football Club, East Lancashire Regiment, B. A. M. C. R. A. C., Hongkong Football Club, Royal Navy (holders), Lincolnshire Regiment, Royal Welsh Fusiliers and Hongkong Police.

Kowloon's Senior Team.

The following will represent the Kowloon Football Club in their First Division League match against South China "B" at Kowloon to-morrow, starting at 4.15 p.m.—O. A. Cord; B. Everest and A. Eastman (Capt.); J. T. K. Gilchrist, A. S. Bliss and B. Whitehead; A. T. Leo, H. C. Elliott, G. White, V. White and D. Knox.

TIME MORTGAGED.

LORDS REFORM MEASURE TO BE HELD OVER

London, Nov. 1. "There will be no measure to reform the House of Lords during the present session of Parliament," Mr. Baldwin informed a deputation of 130 Conservative members to-day.

The deputation urged early reform of the House of Lords, but Mr. Baldwin explained that Parliament time was fully mortgaged, and there was no unanimity in the Government on the subject of reform.—Reuter Special.

EVERYWHERETHE CIVIL SERVICE GAME WITH THE CLUBHAMSON'S FINE DRIVING
AGAINST K. C. C.

(By R. Abbit)

That the game between the H.K.C.C. and the Civil Service was the first Senior League game of the year came as a surprise to me as, at the time of writing my notes last week I had neither card. I may say that the result of the game—a draw—also came as a surprise. I have heard a certain amount of criticism of the tactics of the C.S.C.C., with which I do not agree. If David must take on Goliath, a sling is a better weapon than a club.

It is of course, unfortunate that the various teams are of such disproportionate strength, but cricket talent must be decentralized as far as possible if we are going to get the greatest good of the greatest number. And Saturday afternoon cricket gives the underdog something of a chance to extend his opponent—pardon the mixed metaphor!—if he is wily.

A GREAT TEAM.

Consider the Club side. There were six members of this year's Interport eleven in it, and the remaining five had played in an Interport side; three of them, T. E. Penney, A. W. Hayward, and A. C. I. Bowker. In many sides the C.S.C.C. captain had little batting and was bowing—no what could poor Dicky do then, poor thing? Naturally enough he put the other side in and hoped that either they might declare too early, and give the Civil Service a chance of a fluke win; or too late, and give the C.S. the chance of a drawn game. I cannot quite follow the argument that if you cannot win you must lose. One likes a decision of course. But for sporting interest there was much more kick for the spectators in watching that last hour's struggle than if C.S.C.C. had gone in first, and been duly mopped up by the Club by nine or ten wickets somewhere about 5.30 p.m. I have written some length as I feel rather strongly about this. The only times the Club are going to be really extended are those when they play the Indians and the Pringle's Tournament—perhaps the K.C.C. and Army matches thrown in. The rest of their games will be sitters unless they have to overcome defensive tactics, and I do not see why this should not be just as sporting.

THE GAME.

Richardson put the Club in and they proceeded to wallop the bowling all over the place. Simpson sent down one inspired over in which he bowled Alec Penney and had T. E. Penney taken at the wicket from balls which came with his arm a bit. A great bit of work considering both were well set. But then came the crux of the game. Whether Hayward respected the Civil Service bowling too much, or valued it too lightly, he held on until just after four when the second century had been hoisted. And the Civil Service saved the game thanks to Sayer, Perry, Barrow, and Wood, whose gallant batting stopped what looked like the start of a rot, and finally a stubborn stand by Baker and Simpson in the crepuscular gloom. The Club were unlucky. Duckett could do everything but hit the wicket, and in his last over I think—and I was umpire, that no ball was more than two inches past or over. Acei Bowker really bowled Baker with a beauty but when we looked again it proved to be a snick for four between the wicket and the batsman's legs. A lucky draw, but very well fought for, and the point was well earned.

A QUESTION OF THE RULES.

The light was undoubtedly unfit for play during the last twenty minutes, and several overthrows went for four because neither Duckley nor anyone else could see where the ball was going. When I was asked about the light after I stated that I and my fellow umpire would have stopped the game at any time during the last twenty minutes on the appeal of either Captain—(Captain, mark you!)—and had we not both belonged to the C.S.C.C. who were in danger of defeat, we should have stopped it of our own accord. Here, after looking at the latest Wisden—I think I was wrong and that we have now no such power. In 1931 (I think) after some trouble with a Test Match at Leeds, the question of the fitness of the light—or the reverse was vested solely in the umpires and appeals cut out. This was not a success, and I think that in the very next season the appeal was restored; but I was under the impression that the umpires had retained the right of independent action. However, I cannot justify from the latest rules, and shall be glad if any of my readers can set me right on the point.

C.C.C. AND KOWLOON FRIENDLY.

There was quite a good game between the Craigengower Seniors and K.C.C. The visitors won the toss and Omar alone worried Teddy Fincher and Ramsey. Zinnern too got going and Ernie Fincher and Willie Hung have yet to find their form with the bat. Stapleton has an excellent defence and if he could get a few more scoring shots he would be one of the better batsmen of the Colony. Burnett hit, and Mann, going in very low down also did well. The double century was scored quickly. The Kowloon bowlers, except perhaps Smith, never seemed to find a length, and Hamson, in an innings notable for fine driving, made a great attempt to pull off the game. Omar too seems to have pulled back some of his old form with the bat. But with both teams it is a question of bowling.

THE ARMY WIN.

Capt. Mitchell seems to like matting. Spinning the ball quite a lot he took seven for sixteen against the University. Good figures, but I doubt if anyone will ever beat those of Lobster Reed—6-0-0-61. Garthwaite had the balance of three wickets—they bowled unchanged—and got either fifty-one or forty-nine not out. Dewey got forty-seven and the Army won overwhelmingly.

SECOND DIVISION.

I remarked last week that Wynne might be useful to the Police and he certainly was the deciding factor in their win over the University, who evidently have quite a fair batting side. The Club Second XI easily polished off the C.S.C.C., but the I.R.C. Juniors could not force a win against the R.A.S.C. I have a shrewd sus-

Here's play which paved the way for Santa Clara's touchdown in their game with Stanford at Palo Alto, to make the score 7-7 against the vaunted Indian squad. Sobrero, Santa Clara (10), rips off four yards around right end, while Falaschi (28) is seen blocking out a Stanford player. Moorris (22) and Callaway (11) of Stanford are coming behind Sobrero.

AGAIN ADJOURNED.

ASSAULT CHARGE AGAINST
LAND BAILIFF

The case in which William Gordon Routley, a land bailiff attached to the Public Works Department, is summoned for alleged assault on a Chinese woman, Mrs. Lam Yuet-fung, was continued before Mr. J. H. B. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Peter Sin represented the complainant, while Mr. F. H. Losby, of Messrs. Russ and Company, appeared for the defendant. Se To Hing-yeung, was again cross-examined by Mr. Losby, who drew his attention to the fact that he had made different statements to Mr. Bismend and to the Magistrate.

Witness said that on the day of the assault he heard Routley threaten to beat up Mrs. Lam Yuet-fung. Detective-Sergeant Chan Hing then entered the witness box and said that he had seen complainant at the hospital and had been told that her injuries were caused by a kick from Routley. Witness did not know when complainant made the allegation.

The case was adjourned until the afternoon of Friday, November 9.

They did not feel like an early declaration after the hurried hitting that Welch has been showing lately. It was a close thing. K.C.C. lost again—but only by four runs to the R.A.M.C. College seems out of luck so far this year, but Bonavia held them together with a sound forty-one.

TO-MORROW'S GAMES.

The Army meet the Reclero on the ground of the new Senior Division baby, if I may so term them. And if the new team can beat the Army side, as advertised, they will do well. Clive Garthwaite, the Interport Cricketer will captain the Army, I am told, and no less than three second division men are pulled out for the League side.—Donavin, Welch, and Colledge. The side is pretty much as usual, but I have not yet seen Baker, of the Lincoln playing. If he is the man who has been keeping for the Army in Colledge's absence, I am told he is good.

I can trace no other League games save one in the Junior Division between the University on their own ground and the R.A.M.C. As Bonavia and Colledge are not playing, I fancy the visitors will lose. The Indians and Craigengower and C.S.C.C. and Navy have reciprocal friendlies, the I.R.C. and C.S.C.C. Seniors being at home. The Club are playing a Married and Single, I am afraid I don't know any more save that I believe the Police are at home to the Sappers in a friendly. N.B.—The time for drawing stumps is at ten minutes to six!

MINSEITO PARTY WITHOUT A PRESIDENT

Tokyo, Nov. 1. Mr. Wakatsuki, President of the Minseito Party has tendered his resignation from the post. His action has caused a flurry in political circles, especially since it came on the eve of an organized campaign for a Selyukai-Minseito coalition.

It is pointed out, however, that Mr. Wakatsuki accepted the Presidency of the Minseito Party on condition that the tenure would be temporary.—Reuter.

SESSIONS TRIAL FOR EUROPEAN.

SEVERAL CHARGES OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Geoffrey Fitzgerald Gilbert, a former employee of Messrs. Arnold & Company, Ltd., was yesterday committed to stand his trial at the next Criminal Sessions by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen, at the Central Magistracy, on three charges of embezzlement of monies, amounting to over $14,000, from the Company.

The charges against defendant were that on October 17 he did embezzle $4,828.85 from the Company; on October 18 $3,077.92, and on October 15 $6,604.83.

Mr. W. A. Mackinlay, of Messrs. Deacons, prosecuted, and Mr. J. M. D'Almeida Remedios appeared for the defendant.

Gilbert was allowed to be seated during the proceedings. Mr. Macfadyen asked whether the charges were related to one another.

Mr. Mackinlay replied they were really related to each other. They really formed one transaction throughout the three days.

Mr. Macfadyen remarked he dropped to treat them as one charge.

Mr. Remedios concurred with this proposal.

Prosecution's Case.

Outlining the case for the prosecution, Mr. Mackinlay said: "The facts shortly are as follows. The defendant was employed by Messrs. Arnold & Co., Ltd., under agreement, and he was at the time, and had been for some time past, acting as manager of the branch shop in Bonham Strand. That branch dealt almost entirely with the sales of a commodity known as 'Put Chuck,' which I understand is a sort of medicinal root. Defendant's duty was to supervise the sales, to collect money and pay in to the head office. The business was on a cash basis. The procedure adopted when any sales were made was that the purchase price was paid to the shop. Tang Pak-ping, who, in the normal way, would chop the dealers' book, and issue a receipt. He then handed the money over to a salesman, who entered it in a cash book, which was kept in English, and he then took the money to the defendant, whose duty it was to count the money and check it, and then initial the cash book. It was then the duty of the defendant to enter particulars of the amount in what was known as the paying-in book, and also to make out a credit slip which was a memorandum giving particulars of the amount for book-keeping purposes. Then he should take the money, paying-in book and credit slip to the head office in Gloucester Building. The money was to be paid over to the cashier, and he signed the paying-in book opposite the sum he received, and the credit slip, and they were then taken to the senior member in the Accounts Department."

Thirty Bags Missing.

"With regard to stock," continued Mr. Mackinlay, "the position was that not more than fifty bags were ever kept in Bonham Strand and the stock was checked from time to time by a clerk named Gomes. On October 17, Gomes happened to pass by, and called in at the Bonham Strand branch, and asked the defendant if he might check the stock. He did so and discovered that there were thirty bags missing—there were 17 bags in the stock, and there should have been 47 according to his records. He did not say anything to the defendant at the time, but went back to the head office and reported it to the manager, who instructed him to get in touch with the defendant. He was not able to do so, and he later heard that after he had left the branch office a further 15 bags had been sold and that defendant had received the money for these bags. Further efforts were made during the course of the evening to get in touch with the defendant, but it was not until 9 o'clock the following morning that Mr. Becker, the accountant, was able to see him. A conversation then took place, and as a result of Mr. Becker's report a warrant was issued on the charge of $4,800. Further enquiries were made, as a result of which the two remaining charges were laid."

Mr. Mackinlay then called evidence in support of his outline. Sit Hin-sang, a salesman, now employed at the Kwong San Yuen firm, stated that he had been with the Kwong On Woo firm which had just gone bankrupt and which had business dealings with Arnold & Co.

On October 15 and 16 he took delivery of 25 bags of "Put Chuck" from Arnold & Co. on behalf of the Kwong On Woo firm, for which he paid two sums of money amounting to over $8,000. The money was given to a man named Tang Pak-ping, a shroff employed by Arnold & Co., who gave him a receipt. The shroff then gave the money to a man named Ah Ma who in turn passed it to the defendant.

Another 15 bags were taken delivery of on October 17 for which the sum of $4,828.85 was paid.

In Pak-leung, accountant of the Kwong Wan Chung firm, said they had dealings with Arnold & Company. On October 15 they took delivery of five bags of "Put Chuck" for which they paid $1,604.83. He paid this money to Ah Tang, who chopped his book and also stuck on the stamp for the receipt. He saw Ah Tang put the money in a drawer. Ah Ma was present.

Handed to Defendant.

Tang Pak-ping, shroff at the Bonham Strand branch of the Company, said that his duties were to receive money and hand the money over to Ma Shu-chung. On October 15, Sit Hin-sang paid in $5,000. He handed this money to Ma, who noted the receipt of it in the book. Ma handed the money and the book over to the defendant. On the same day Lu Pak-leung also paid in $1,600. He gave that money also to Ma. He also received $1,300 odd from the Wing Hing Cheung firm and $2,000 odd from Sui Cho-tong, who also paid in $1,300 odd, the balance of their account. On October 16 he received $3,000 odd from the Kwong On Woo firm, which was the balance of their account. On October 17 he received another sum of $4,800 odd from the Kwong On Woo firm. These monies he handed over to

MURDER CHARGE

YOUTH ALLEGED TO HAVE POISONED MASTER

Pun Cho-on, a young gardener's fook, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon charged with the murder, by arsenic poisoning on August 6, of Chik Wing, a vegetable gardener, of Tai Hom village, near Kowloon City.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the Crown, assisted by Inspector A. J. W. Dorling.

In outlining the case, Mr. Fraser said that Chik Wing had been a vegetable gardener in Tai Hom village, while Pun Cho-on had been employed by him as a coolie labourer. There was also another fook, they all lived in the same hut, which was divided into two partitions, Chik Wing and his wife occupying one part and the two fooks the other.

"The offence," said Mr. Fraser, "is murder by administration of arsenic to the deceased on August 6. It is alleged by the Crown that the accused was in love with Chik Wing's wife and made suggestions to her to abandon her husband and go with him to Singapore. Originally, the wife was charged, but this was afterwards withdrawn.

"The circumstances are that on July 4 accused sent another man to buy some rock arsenic. This was given to accused on August 6, and, later that evening, he and Chik Wing's wife had a meal together of congee, which had been cooked by the woman. From that meal, neither of them suffered any ill-effects. Chik Wing later partook of the congee and quickly felt a burning sensation, shortly after being violently sick.

Arsenic Found in Animals.

"Being suspicious, he poured off some of the congee into an animal's trough which lay in the yard and, incidentally, some of the animals shortly afterwards died. On analysis of their entrails, arsenic was found.

"Chik Wing found a gritty substance in the bottom of the congee pan. He called to his wife and neighbour, the latter examined the pan and, on being told by the wife that there had been nothing but sugar put in the congee Chik Wing examined the sugar container which stood on the shelf in the hut. Water was poured into the container, but nothing was found. Chik Wing then became violently ill and began to vomit, so he went to bed. A doctor, called in, found him suffering from what appeared to be the effects of some irritant poisoning. A simple remedy was given and an ambulance later took him to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

"On August 8, he died, something less than a grain of arsenic being found in the body. Chik Wing took a sample of the congee to the hospital and accused his wife and Pun Cho-on of poisoning him. On examination, the congee was found to contain a large quantity of arsenic. Later, the body was examined, arsenic being found in various parts of the body. Pun Cho-on was charged with murder and, in his statement to the Police, said that he had put something in the congee."

Doctor's Evidence.

Dr. Cheung Yick-sun, at present in charge of the Pung Hom Public Dispensary, said in evidence that as a result of receiving a telephone call at 5.30 on the evening of August 6, he went to Tai Hom village, where he met Lai Ping and Chik Hip, who took him to a hut where he found Chik Wing lying on a bed, retching and vomiting. Witness examined the man, but found no rash on his body. The patient complained of an acute pain in the stomach and was perspiring. His temperature was normal, but the pulse was irregular and quick. His face was flushed, due to excitement and vomiting. The back part of the man's throat was inflamed and swollen. The doctor injected a quarter grain of morphine and one-fiftieth of a grain of atropine, and then gave the man the whites of six eggs which he managed to keep down. Dr. Cheung thought the symptom indicated poison taken through the mouth.

Dr. Bau Tsu Zung, of the Kwong Wah Hospital, then said that Chik Wing had been admitted to the hospital at 8 p.m. on August 6. His brother handed over a mug containing congee. The patient's heart beats were quite strong, at times and sometimes almost imperceptible. He vomited about five times. Witness did not at that time know the nature of the poison, but was told the next day that the cause was arsenic. Patient was given glucose as a form of nourishment, and made a deposition to Mr.

SEVEN WOKEMEN RECEIVE MINOR INJURIES

Seven workmen engaged in the erection of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's new building were involved in an accident late yesterday afternoon while removing boards from the concrete settings, on the second floor.

Six men were standing on an improvised platform, removing the boards from the reinforced concrete settings, when the structure collapsed. Five of the men fell 27 feet and received minor injuries. One man is believed to have received spinal injuries.

One man managed to seize a projecting bar and remained suspended for a short time, but he was unable to retain his hold. He fell on one of the men who were working on the floor. Both received slight injuries.

All seven persons were taken to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment.

Lee on August 7. He died the next day, the cause of death being severe gastronomic anthrax and heart failure.

Sergeant J. Allen gave evidence of taking various sealed packages on different dates to Mr. Tetley, Assistant Government Analyst, from Inspector Dorling. Wu Wing, of the Kwong Wah Hospital, also gave evidence of taking a sealed parcel from Dr. Bau to Mr. Tetley.

Kwok Mun, a ward boy at the hospital, said that on August 6 he had seen Chik Hip give a mug to Dr. Bau which was later given to Inspector Carey.

Sale of Arsenic.

Tang Kam, a vegetable gardener, related how on July 4 he had bought some arsenic for Pun Cho-on as a cure for ring-worm. This was bought at a druggist's shop in Shanghai Street. A day or two later, the package was given to the accused, who in return handed over $1.60 "luck" money in red paper. Evidence of the sale of the arsenic was also given by Fung Kin-sang.

The case was adjourned until this afternoon, Mr. Wynne-Jones also reserving Monday for a hearing.

COASTAL AIR DEFENCE UNITS RECOMMENDED

FEAR OF PACIFIC WAR

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, Nov. 2, 10.48 a.m.)

WASHINGTON, NOV. 1.
AMERICA MUST MAINTAIN A NAVAL RATIO OF FIVE-FIVE-THREE BETWEEN BRITAIN, UNITED STATES AND JAPAN IF SHE IS TO DEFEND SUCCESSFULLY HER MARKETS IN THE FAR EAST.

AMERICA MUST FORTIFY HER COAST LINE IN ORDER TO RESIST SUCCESSFULLY ANY MENACE FROM A WARRING POWER.

AMERICA MUST HAVE A POWERFUL MERCHANT MARINE IN ORDER TO MAINTAIN HER COMMERCE AND TO CO-OPERATE WITH HER FIGHTING SEA FORCES IN THE EVENT OF A WAR WITH A FAR EASTERN NATION.

These were the main points of policy outlined by authoritative American sources to day.

The difficulty of defending the Philippine Islands in the event of a future war in the Pacific is understood to be among the strategic factors influencing the United States in insisting upon maintenance of the 5-5-3 naval ratio.

Although conflicting views are reported to exist in high circles, it is understood that the United States will defend the Philippines against attack as long as the American flag flies there, which will be at least for another ten years. Her subsequent policy will be toward the islands is still awaiting development.

NEEDS BIG FLEET.

The United States could only defend the islands with a fleet of strength sufficient to compensate for the absence of supporting bases and large land forces to defend the coast against landing parties.

Speaking in New York to the Foreign Trade Council, Admiral Yates Stirling urged that the nation maintain a large and modern merchant marine to retain the markets won abroad and also for use in naval emergency. He said that without adequate sea power the United States markets in the Far East could not be maintained.

"We must realise that our sea power in the Orient cannot exist without a securely held fleet base in those waters and according to the Washington Treaty a naval base there is denied us. The fact that the United States has no naval base in the Far East will cause a heavy demand on our merchant marine in the event of war," declared the Admiral.

"Everything the fleet will require, provided fate carries the nation into a war with an Oriental power, will have to be transported overseas in ships flying our flag," he reminded his hearers.

COAST DEFENCES.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the Federal Aviation Commission was hearing Representative Wilcox, who proposed the establishment of

U.S. EMERGENCY EXPENDITURE

OVER $1,000,000,000

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 2, 10.48 a.m.)

Washington, Nov. 1.
The United States Government deficit for the present fiscal year has passed the U.S.$1,000,000,000 mark.

The excess of expenditures over revenues to-day was estimated at a grand total of U.S.$1,026,788,000. Gold receipts, exceeding U.S.$2,000,000, raised the total value of U.S.$8,001,062,000. This is the first time that the figure has exceeded U.S.$8,000,000,000.

EMERGENCY EXPENDITURES.

The emergency expenditures were U.S.$1,105,872,000 and the general expenditures totalled U.S.$1,129,101,000. Receipts amounted to U.S.$1,208,184,000.

The increasing number of silver certificates issued against silver holdings, much of which was bought by the Treasury under the Silver Purchase Act, is noteworthy. Over U.S.$50,000,000 has been obtained from the issue of certificates against the metal previously held by the Treasury.—United Press.

a series of air defence bases at strategic points in order "to make the American frontier invulnerable."

He recommended the establishment of three great bases on each coast, the Atlantic and Pacific; and one each at Panama, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska.

Each base, according to the calculations which he submitted, would cost in the neighbourhood of U.S.$10,000,000.—United Press.

Air Commodore Sir

New Cup For Yacht Contests

INTERNATIONAL TROPHY

MANY LIKELY TO COMPETE

Boston, Nov. 1.

Plans for the inauguration of a new international competition for twelve metre yachts were announced to-day by the North American Yacht Racing Union, after waiting for the expiration of the time limit on October 31 for another challenge for the America's Cup.

The contest will call for a new trophy, to be known as the International Twelve Metre Cup.

The rules of the competition provide that yachts must be built and designed in the country they are to represent but they may be shipped aboard steamers to the scene of any contest.

This last condition, coupled with the much smaller cost of building as compared with the "outlay" in America's Cup competitions, is likely to induce more competitors to come forward.

PROFESSIONALS RESTRICTED.

Another rule which will meet with wide approval will be that the number of paid, or professional hands, aboard the vessels shall be limited to four, but the number of amateurs is not restricted.

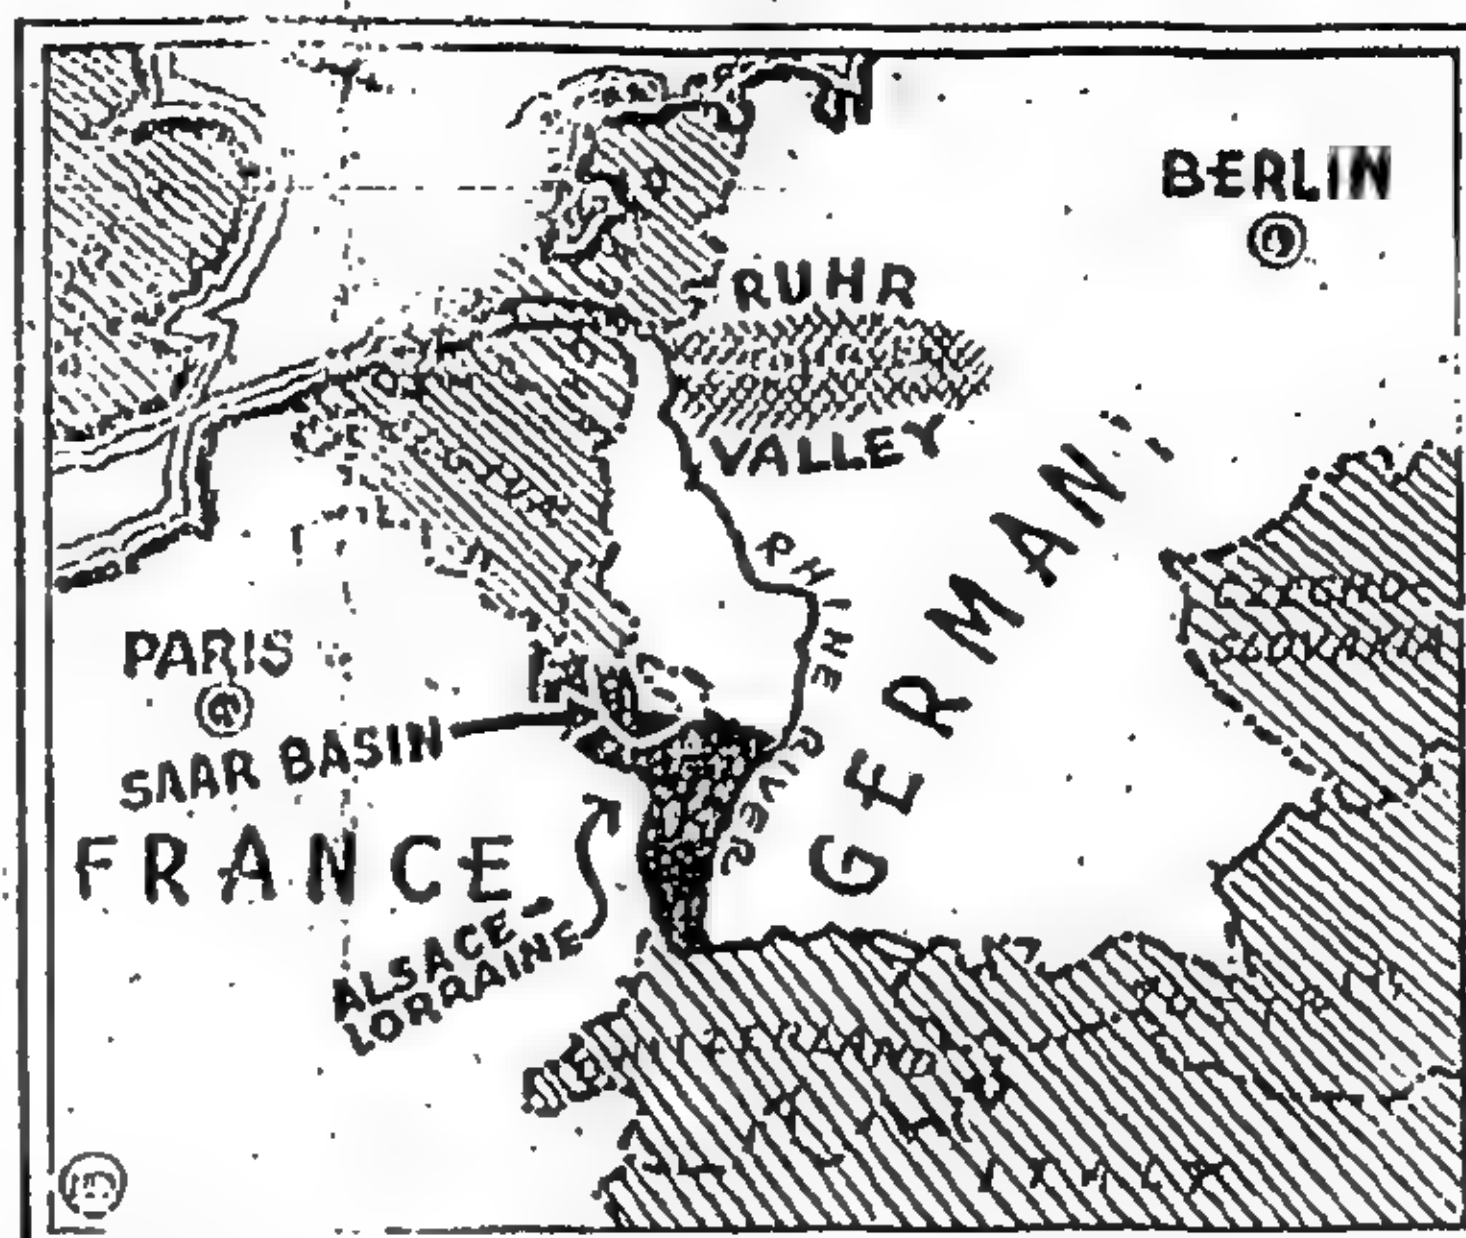

It is hoped that the races for this new trophy will be inaugurated next summer in American waters. Several defenders are already being built. Subsequent contests, as is the case in America's Cup races, will be held in the waters of the country winning the trophy.

LIKELY CONTENDERS.

Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, France, Canada and Bermuda are mentioned as very likely contenders in this new competition.

It is also possible that entries will come from Germany, Spain and the Argentine.—Reuter.

A concert arranged by Mrs. R. S. S. will be given at The Helena May Institute on Thursday, November 8 at 8.30 p.m.

The above map shows the position of the Saar Basin, again figuring prominently in the news.

CONSERVATIVE LOSSES

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 2, 11.22 a.m.)

London, Nov. 1.

In striking contrast with its experience in 1931, when over 400 seats were lost, Labour is well on the way to capturing the municipal machine throughout the country in the elections being held to-day.

Returns up to midnight show that many Conservative seats have been captured by Labour candidates, the gains and losses on a party basis up to this hour being as follows:

| | Gains | Losses |
|---------------|-------|--------|
| Labour | 260 | 8 |
| Conservatives | 13 | 161 |
| Liberals | 1 | 31 |
| Independents | 5 | 75 |

So far, Labour has won 200 seats in the Provinces and 62 in London.

ATONEMENT OF U.S.

New York, Nov. 1.

The United States is willing to atone for her past high tariff policy by leading the way to freer international trade, according to an address to the Foreign Trade Association read on behalf of Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, to-day.

He declared that America was asking other nations to join in an attempt to "undo the damage which our collective action has worked."

The effect of the 1930 Tariff Act was to shut the door against their own products, Mr. Hull realised, "and we now recognise that ex-

FOLLOWED HOOVER THEORY

THOUGHT CRASH TEMPORARY

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 2, 11.22 a.m.)

Chicago, Nov. 1.

Mr. Samuel Insull, facing charges of enormous frauds in the operations of his defunct utilities companies, to-day took full responsibility for the collapse of his organisation when testifying in his own behalf at the trial in which he and fifteen others are implicated.

He claimed he followed the economic theories of the former President, Mr. Herbert Hoover and of Mr. John D. Rockefeller that the market crash was only temporary and that the nation's finances were basically sound.—United Press.

"TREMENDOUS TEMPTATION."

Chicago, Nov. 1.
Mr. Samuel Insull, the former utilities magnate on trial here with sixteen others charged with fraudulent exploitation of the public purse, disclosed to-day that in 1926 he had been offered by Mr. Stanley Baldwin the chairmanship of the British High Tension Power Development Company.

Mr. Insull's evidence has been full of sensations, but this was one of the greatest of them.

He said Mr. Baldwin's offer was a "tremendous temptation."

"I could have gone to England and duplicated the reputation that I had already made here," he said. The offer was made after he had given evidence before a Royal Commission investigating long distance power development in Britain, he added.—Reuter.

ports paid for by loans are simply a present to foreign countries," he said.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt had telegraphed Mr. James Farrell, chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council, declaring: "We are seeking to rehabilitate international commerce in a way which will benefit not a single nation, but all the nations. One of the most serious causes of trade decline is the artificial barriers hampering a healthful interchange of commodities."—Reuter.

TENSION GROWS IN EUROPE

Paris, Nov. 1.

The tension surrounding the Saar, considerably increased by the French preparations to throw troops into the region in the event of an attempted Nazi putsch, is causing some uneasiness in Europe. Britain, in spite of her desire to dissociate herself from the affair, now finds herself being deliberately involved by Germany.

It was authoritatively stated here to-day that French motor units behind the Alsatian border are ready to enter the Saar at a moment's notice, if President Knox of the League Governing Commission, issues an appeal for assistance. This he will only do if the local gendarmerie are overwhelmed by Nazis during or before the plebiscite on January 13.

Eckener To Work For America?

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 2, 11.22 a.m.)

Washington, Nov. 1.

It is learned that the Post Office is informally negotiating with Dr. Hugo Eckener, famous German dirigible pilot, for an experimental trans-Atlantic air mail service beginning next July.

Dr. Eckener believes that a forty-eight hour service will now be possible.—United Press.

The fact that 10,000 young Saar Nazis have been undergoing training in Germany with a view to exerting pressure during the plebiscite makes it not improbable that the French troops may be called upon.

UNWILLING INTERVENTION.

France insists that a few thousand men thrown into the Saar in the event of trouble could master the situation in a single afternoon.

It is emphasised that France does not want to become involved in action of this sort and believes that the fact of her preparedness will deter demonstrators and obviate the necessity of further action. If troops are despatched, however, it will not be with the idea of influencing the plebiscite and they will be withdrawn as soon as order is restored.—Reuter.

GERMAN RESENTMENT.

Berlin, Nov. 1.

The German press is indignantly denying that a Nazi putsch is intended in the Saar.

The newspapers declare that France is merely trying to influence the plebiscite and call upon England to openly decline to participate in an "invasion of the Saar."—Reuter.

LEAGUE ACTION.

Geneva, Nov. 1.

The League of Nations Council will be convoked on November 21 to study the question of the Saar plebiscite.

Meanwhile reports of the French preparations to march troops into the Saar as a precaution against a possible German putsch have aroused high resentment in Germany.

Cruiser's Fight With Pirate Ship

AMERICAN OFFICER ESCAPES BULLETS

EXCITING BRUSH OFF CHEKIANG

Shanghai, Nov. 2.

The new Chinese Maritime Customs Cruiser, Yuen Hsing, put into service in September, had an early taste of battle when she was engaged with a pirate junk off the Chekiang coast 100 miles south of Shanghai yesterday.

The pirates were carrying contraband and ten Chinese fishermen as hostages and opened fire when an American officer, Mr. T. W. Joyce, and three Chinese sailors, attempted to board their craft.

Joyce miraculously escaped unhurt, but his three seamen companions were wounded.

As the cruiser's cutter attempted to row away from the junk, the four occupants emptied their revolvers at the marksmen who sniped at them. The Yuen Hsing's commander, Capt. George Skinner, a British subject, ordered his gunners to open fire with machine-guns and sent his best rifle shots into action in an attempt to cover the retreat of the cutter.

The junk attempted to escape but was held and later sunk. The pirates abandoned ship, two being shot dead and three others drowned. Five were captured.

Four of the hostage fishermen were drowned and six were rescued. One of the Chinese sailors of the cruiser's complement is missing, and is believed to have fallen overboard during the engagement, probably wounded or killed outright.—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S PRESTIGE

The film, whether considered as entertainment or as education, is but in the infancy of its development, and its main contribution to social welfare is still to come, says the British Film Institute in its first annual report.

Experience has shown during the past year, it is stated, that both the quality and prestige of British films are rising, and producers and exhibitors are more prepared than they have been to experiment with films of artistic merit and educational value.

The Institute was founded last October for the purpose of furthering co-operation between those who make, distribute, and exhibit films, and all who are interested in the artistic, educational, and cultural possibilities of films.

Various panels have been formed to deal with specific aspects of the film industry, including education, entertainment, international relations, social service, and scientific research.

Among the matters under the consideration of the entertainment panel are: The securing of views from the public as to the type of film required, and making available these opinions to the film producers; special films and programmes for children's performances; encouragement to the repertory theatre movement; and methods to be adopted whereby public support may be given to films containing some unusual merit, which do not obtain appreciation from the ordinary cinema-going public.

The international relations panel is considering means of establishing machinery whereby films showing national characteristics can be freely circulated between Great Britain and other countries.

An interesting suggestion made in the report is that films of cultural or instructional value should be freed from the formality of being certified by the British Board of Censors. It has been submitted to the Film Censorship Consultative Committee that any such films viewed and approved by the British Film Institute should not need further examination by the Board of Censors.

A FILM CAVALCADE

Gene Fowler, the American biographer, has just completed a story of the life of Mack Sennett which is to be made into a film giving the "Cavalcade" of the motion picture industry since the first celluloid picture was made in a Hollywood stable.

The greatest cast ever formed for one film will appear in the picture, including Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, Wallace Beery, Buster Keaton, Louise Fazenda, Harold Lloyd, Carole Lombard, Bing Crosby, Sally Eilers, W. C. Fields, Ford Sterling, and a host of others.

The history of the film industry will be coloured with snags of the private and professional lives of the greatest living artists.

CINEMA CENSORSHIP

The Glasgow Council of Juvenile Organisations is still "far from satisfied" on the question of cinema censorship.

Commenting on the subject in the annual report, to be presented at the annual meeting in Glasgow, the Executive Committee states that until the Secretary of State for Scotland makes the Home Office "model conditions" compulsory the whole matter of cinema censorship in Scotland will remain unsatisfactory.

SUN TAN IN WINTER

At the end of the summer many women are left with a legacy of sun-tanned arms, face and neck. Tanned skin is attractive when showing above cotton frocks, but when evening dress is worn it does seem somewhat out of place.

If your arms are burned brown by the sun, you may care to bleach them if you go out much in the evenings. Try rubbing them every day with half a freshly cut lemon. Begin at the shoulders and rub the arms down to the wrists, allowing the lemon juice to dry on the skin. This treatment is excellent for discoloured arms. Sometimes, nicely shaped arms just miss being beautiful because the skin is marked by blemishes. These can often be cured by scrubbing the arms with a loofah dipped in a warm soapy lather. The skin should be scrubbed until it is pink and glowing. Do this every day for a week or so, and the skin will be sure to be cleaned and improved.

If olive oil is massaged into the skin before it is rubbed with the loofah it helps to remove blemishes that have been there a long time. If your elbows are rough, scrubbing them with a loofah dipped in a warm soapy lather, followed by splashing them with cold water, will improve them, too. After drying them carefully, massage them with almond oil.

Massage, done regularly every day, will help to reduce arms that are too fat in places. When you wear evening dress, liquid powder is the best "make-up." Sponge it on the arms and neck, rub it in gently with the palms of the hands, and let it dry before smoothing the skin with a perfectly clean chambray leather.

experiences he had during his visit there (says Reuter).

"It is no longer a case of 'young man go West' if you are in films, but 'young man go East,'" he said. "London to-day is in the cinema world what New York and Hollywood used to be."

LONGER SERVICE FOR CONSCRIPTS?

FRENCH ARMY MAY ALTER SYSTEM

MANOEUVRES' REVELATIONS

Important alterations in the military laws of France may follow, it is believed, the manoeuvres of the 41st Division of the Army—composed entirely of Reservists—which ended in the Marne district recently.

The test was a severe one, both for officers and men, and Gen. Fretet, of the Supreme War Council, spoke highly of the spirit and endurance of the Reservists, who were commanded by General Barraud, who is on the Reserve list.

In military circles it has long been urged that one year's service is not sufficiently long to train good Reservist officers or N.C.O.s.

Two suggestions have been put forward to remedy this. One is that conscript service should be increased from one year to two years, and the second—that the number of long-service men—now about 100,000—should be increased.

References have been made recently to possible additional military expenditure this year. Much of this will be for the Air Force and for artillery and motor equipment, but it is possible that it may also be decided to change the present military laws.

In political circles the proposal is being made that a compromise should be effected between the two alternatives quoted.

If this compromise France might call her conscripts up for 18 months, while she might enrol 60,000 more long-service men, to be stationed near the Maginot Line and to serve with the active troops as a covering army in case of mobilisation.

New York Daily News (quoted by Reuter).

The couple arrived at Harrison at a time when its citizens were all arrayed as rustics and were attending an old-fashioned barn dance. Even the Justice of the Peace who was called on to marry them was dressed in an old torn hat, patched overalls, and false whiskers.

Marylin Miller has been twice married already. Her first husband was a Frank Carter, who died. The second was Jack Pickford. The marriage was dissolved.

BUSTER KEATON FILM

Work on Buster Keaton's first British film, a British and Continental production, which is being made under the working title of "The Intruder," started this week at the Worton Hall studios. Lupita Tovar, the Spanish-American actress, is playing opposite Buster Keaton in this production, which has a Spanish background. The supporting cast includes Lyn Harding, Clifford Hetherley, and Esme Percy.

"BEST SELLER" FOR CARY GRANT

Paramount have purchased "So Red the Rose," the "best seller," by Stark Young, as a possible vehicle for Cary Grant, the Bristol-born actor.

It is described as a modern romance contrasted against a background of the American Civil War.

It is possible that the leading lady will be either Claudette Colbert or Carole Lombard.

DREADFUL MENACE OF NOISELESS AIRCRAFT

By ROGER FULLER.

THE success of a new aircraft apparatus, demonstrated at Hanworth aerodrome, has shown that air power is now approaching its ultimate terror—that noiseless conception, feared for years, when warplanes will be able to swoop noiselessly through the night sky, their approach unsuspected, their presence untraced.

I flew in one of the first machines to be equipped with a silencer—developed in co-operation with Air Ministry experts at Farnborough.

The silencer has reached such a state of perfection that there is no point in improving its qualities further until greater advance has been made in reducing aircraft noise.

The engine beat yesterday was reduced to a mere rushing noise, and instead of being forced to shout in the cabin it was easy to make oneself understood in a normal speaking voice.

LESS NOISY THAN A CAR.

From the ground, even when the machine was flying as low as 500 ft., the engine noise was not as great as that of many motor-cars and

When flying at a height of 2,500 ft., the aircraft was inaudible.

The demonstration was followed with keen interest by a technical expert from the Air Ministry research station at Farnborough and by representatives of the leading manufacturers of engines for our warplanes.

Private firms and Government experts in all parts of the world have for years been attempting to solve the problem of silent engines for the benefit of passengers in civil aircraft, and more urgently to produce ridding machines that do not reveal their presence through noise.

Defence against hostile aircraft largely depends on warning of their approach being flashed to headquarters from listening posts equipped with sound detectors though the raiders may be hidden by cloud.

How much more difficult will it be to check craft flying at 20,000 ft. with silenced engines?

Such raiders would be as silent as night birds, though travelling at three miles a minute.

The silencer has been developed by Messrs. C. G. Vokes, Ltd., of Putney, and has been tested at Farnborough and by Messrs. Rolls-Royce, Ltd., who make very many of the engines used in our day and night bombers.

HELPLESS DEFENCE.

One of the biggest problems facing experts has been how to obtain silence without loss of power, and the new apparatus has almost achieved this—the loss on the biggest type of engine yet tested being only from two to three per cent.

The principles of the silence is to turn the pulsating movements of the exhaust gases under pressure into a steady stream. Although the gases run "straight through" and do not come in contact with the outer casing, so that all "tunny," "drumming," or "running down" noises are prevented.

If research solves the parallel problems of diminishing aircraft noise and vibrational noises from wind buffeting is successful, the era of the perfectly silent aeroplane is at hand.

The only adequate form of defence then will be "offensive defence," by means of squadrons of day and night bombers. Searchlights and anti-aircraft guns will be almost helpless.

It would be possible for silent warplanes to cross the coast at 200 m.p.h., drop their bombs over London, and be well on their way back within half an hour, while gun crews stood wondering where the invaders were.

BATHING MACHINE IS DOOMED

KING'S SHELTER A TOOL SHED

The news that Deal is converting her last dozen bathing machines into hen roosts is a reminder of an end-of-the-season seaside job that will soon belong to the past. Deal at least will no longer have to drag back her once indispensable bathing machines to a sheltered spot for their hibernation. The lament of the Deal beach man that "with the free and easy customs of to-day machines are no use" is echoed, more or less loudly at

Even Weymouth, which probably has the most formidable surviving array of bathing machines, has lost faith in them to the extent that it has allowed the most famous bathing machine in the world, the one from which George III. bathed to the accompaniment of "God Save the King" (played by a band in an adjoining machine), to fall from its high estate. Up to the time of the war it was always kept in its place of honour at the extreme right of the line, and when the machines were withdrawn to Loddmoor for the winter the arms were removed and put away until the following season. But this historic machine, in common with others, has had its wheels taken off and has become a tool-shed. It is said that in the early days of Blackpool the ladies on a wet Sunday used to be taken to church in bathing machines, but at any rate this was respectful misuse!

WHEN SEA BATHING BEGAN.

Before bathing machines became completely obsolete some remembrance of their inventor and co-inventor played in the development of the seaside would not be out of place, the more so as this time of the bathing machine's eclipse is also the time of its bicentenary, in so far as this can be fixed. When sea bathing itself began has never been determined. Lecky mentions Lord Chesterfield's surprise at seeing bathing at Scarborough in 1733, and there is no doubt that the construction of a new harbour at Scarborough in 1734 made room for bathing facilities which gave a fillip to the pastime. An engraving of 1735 shows people bathing there from a shelter on the beach or from covered rowing boats. By 1737 a bathing machine had appeared at Scarborough.

But there is evidence that the original bathing machine had been introduced at Margate two or three years earlier, and, indeed, the probability is that it is exactly 200 years ago since Benjamin Beale, his Quaker soul vexed by the indecorum of what he saw on Margate sands, bethought himself of the wonderful horse-drawn caravan which was to make sea-bathing consonant with decency.

DATE CAN BE FIXED.

The evidence for this is rather interesting. All the scraps of information, except the latest, about Beale, assign a later date to his discovery. C. H. Woodruff, in the "Home Counties Magazine" in 1902, gave 1753, and this is supported by a reference to the Margate machines in 1764 as "curiosities." However, a couple of years ago Sir Ambrose Heal made a discovery at the Society of Antiquaries which showed that Beale's machine was being used in 1736, and was probably invented a year or two earlier. He came across some manuscript notes and drawings in the society's copy of a book called "Antiquities of the Isle of Thanet," by the Rev. John Lewis, of Margate. They were made by Joseph Ames, a friend of Lewis's, and include a sketch of a bathing machine identical with the one which appears on the copy of Beale's trade card in the British Museum, and a description of the invention. Ames had already made a drawing of Margate which appeared in the book itself, and presumably his object in making his sketch was to give an up-to-date picture of Margate, including the new bathing machine. Ames' note of the year in which he made his sketch is "173—," but, provokingly, the last numeral is torn off. As he went down to Margate to get a copy of the new book, however, it is exceedingly probable that the year was 1736.

DESCRIPTION OF A MACHINE.

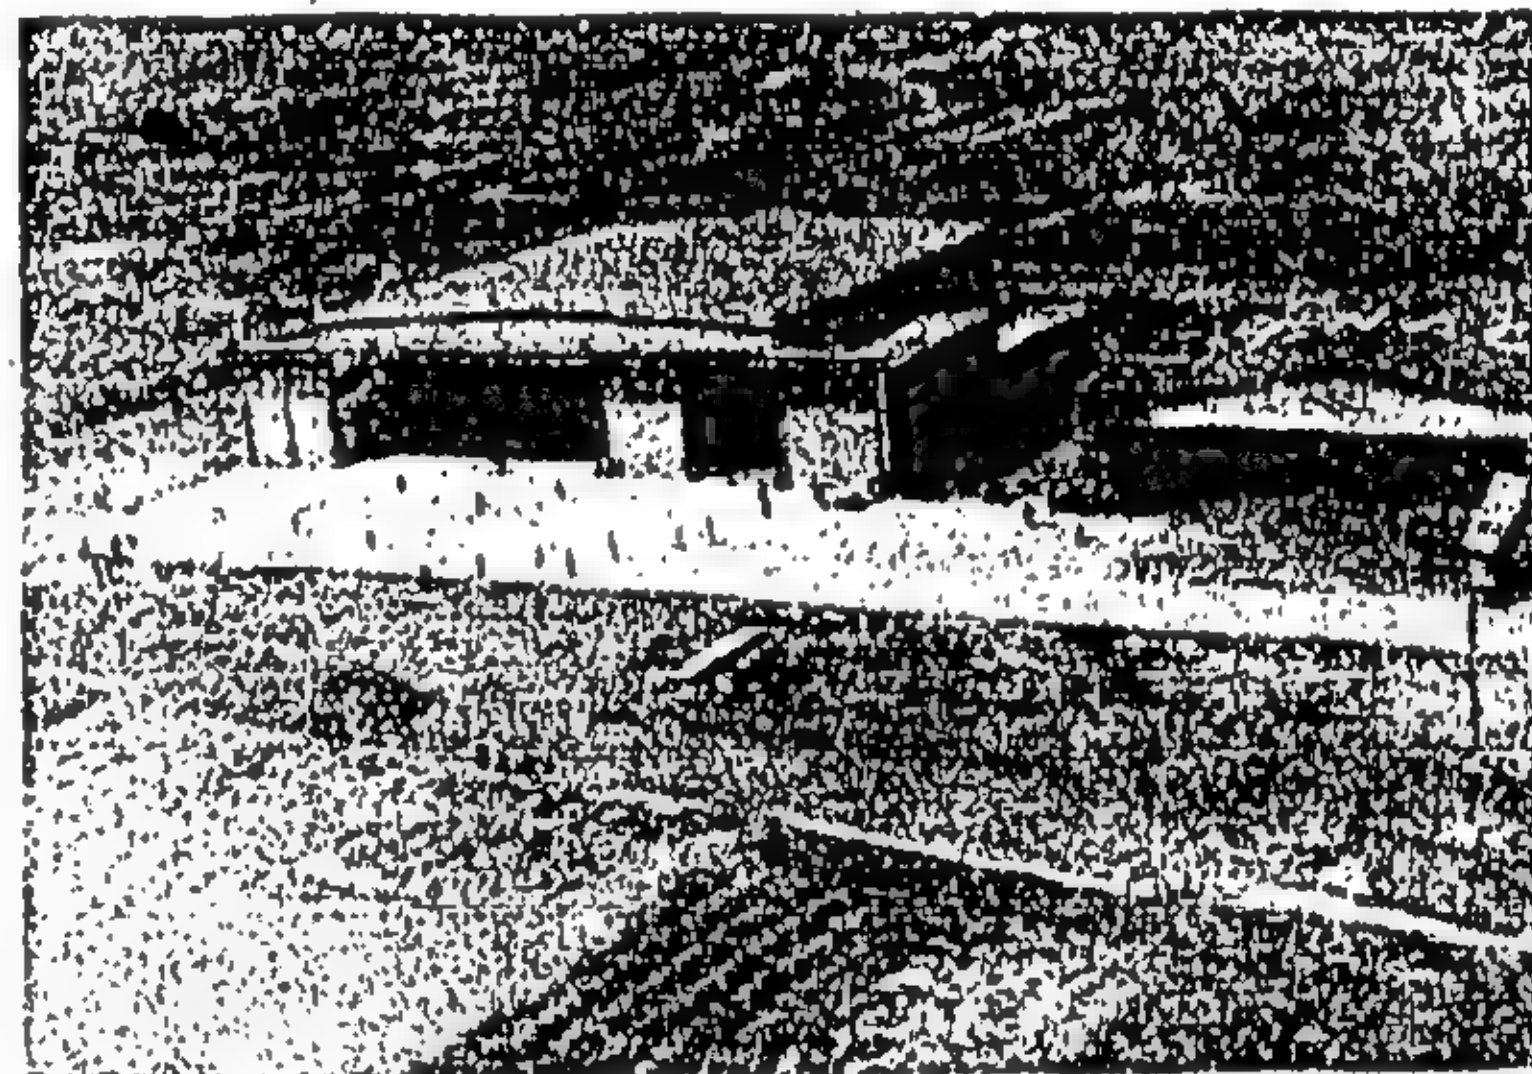

Here is Ames' description of the machine:—"It contains a room to undress and dress in, with a space to go down to the sea, and it will hold five or six people. There are men and women guides who, if desired, attend. The price is 4s. a week, or £1 1s. for six weeks, and you pay a guide for every attendance. They drive into the sea until the machine is out breast high, and then let down a screen, which prevents being seen, and under which you go down the steps into a fine sandy bottom."

In later machines there was a fireplace with chimney, so that the bather, in his shivery funnel of cloth, might warm himself. The Victorian machines, during by

we live on an island, why should we lack for an excellent cold bath," but it was Beale who showed how the thing might be done. If the seaside resorts celebrate the bicentenary of the bathing machine, as well they might next year, we shall inevitably poke fun at the way Beale protected his bathers from prying eyes; but if he had not done so bathing might not have developed at all. In any case, the invention served six generations.

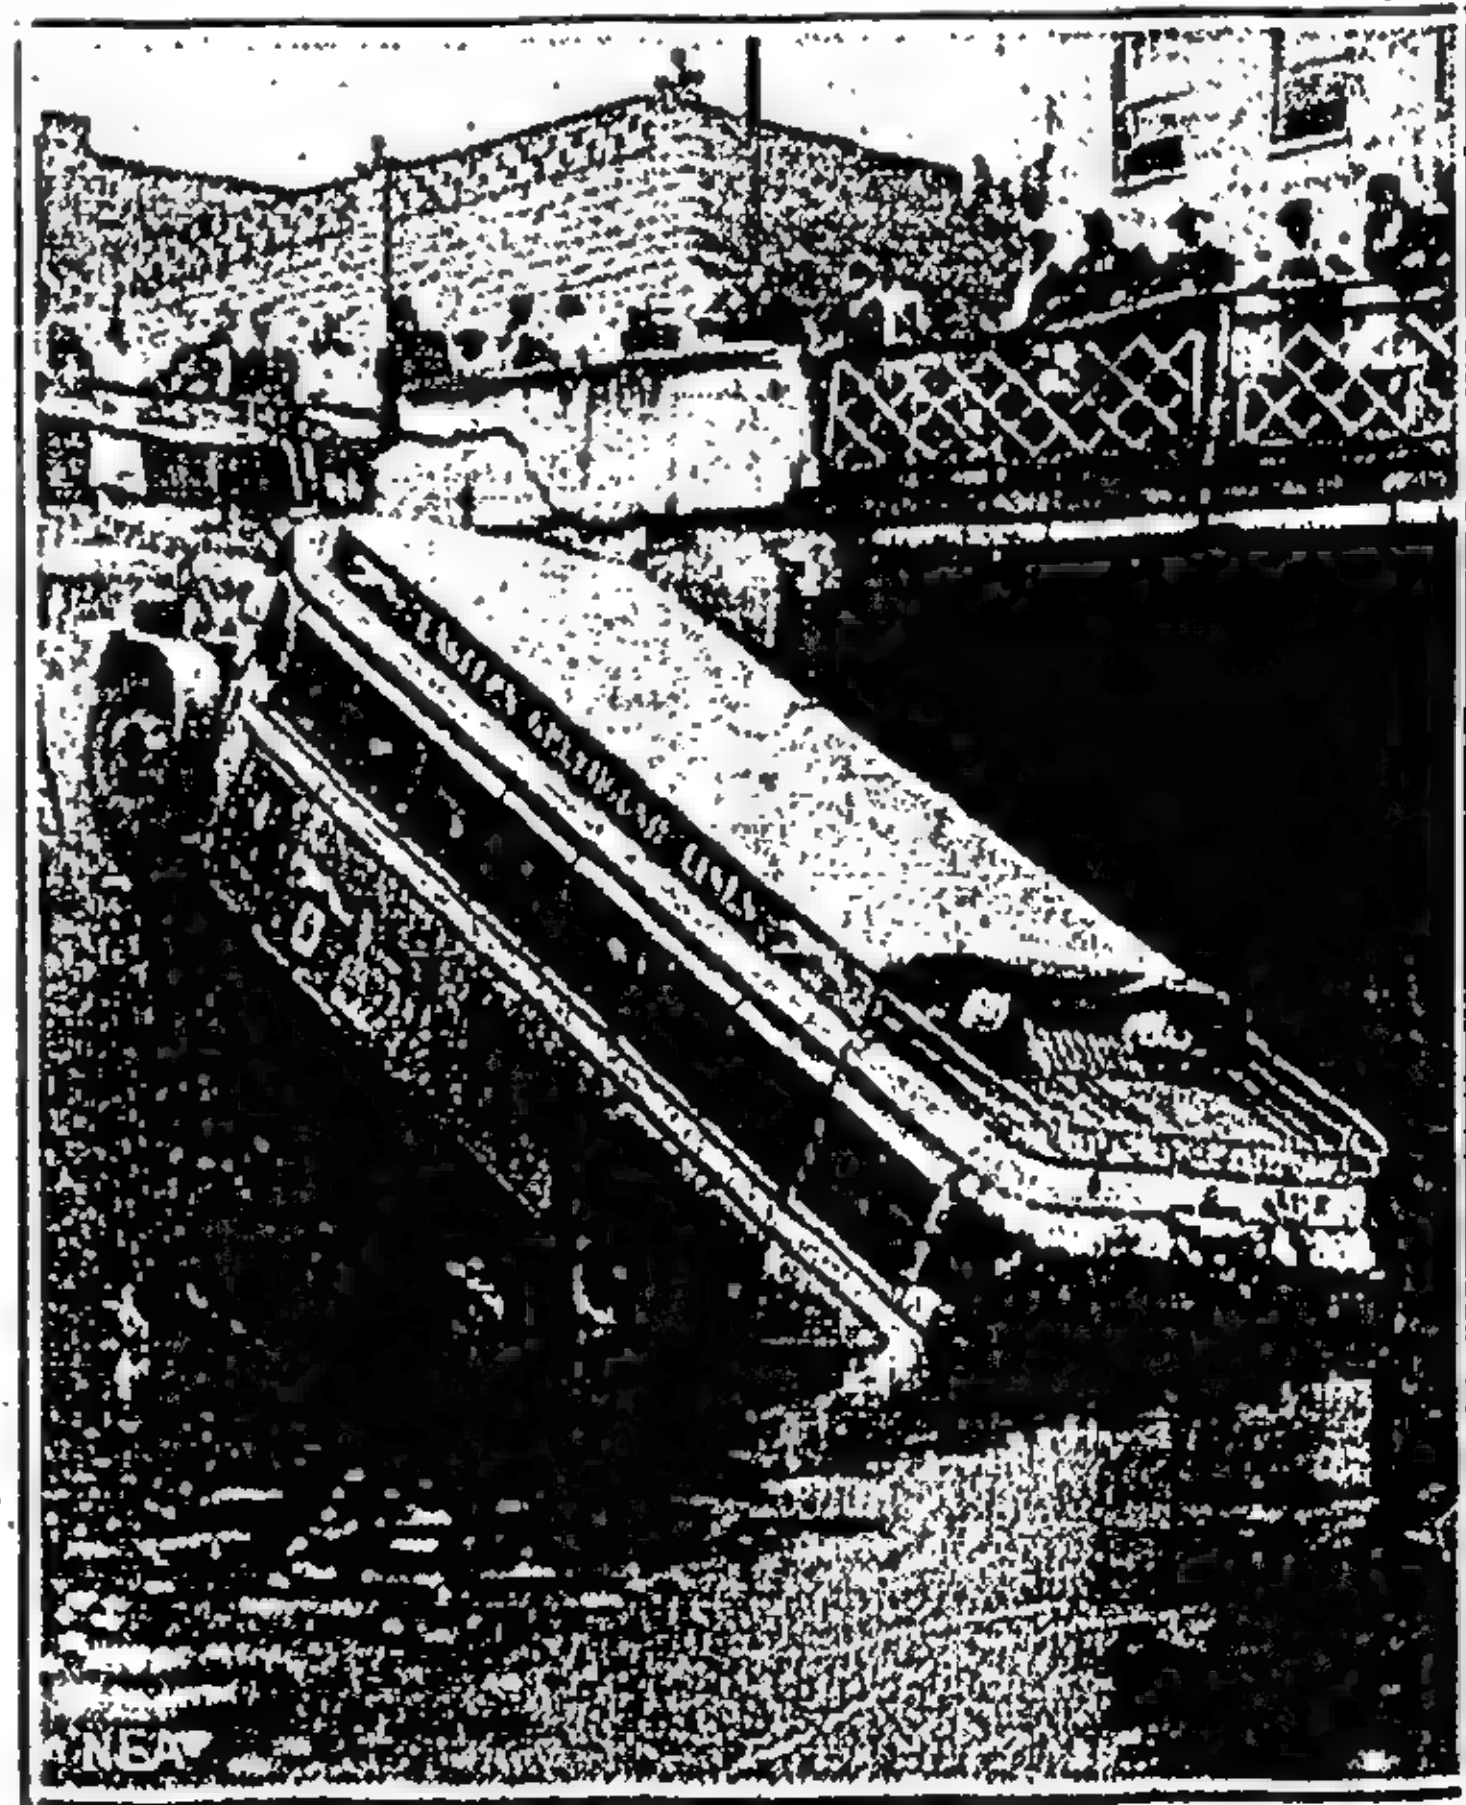

Except that his grandson was making money from bathing machines in the middle of the last century, all that we know of Benjamin Beale is that the invention ruined him, and that he died poor. His widow died in the Drapers' Almshouse at Margate. Beale was before his time. The golden harvest of the sands came a generation or so later, when George III., at Weymouth, and the Regent, at Brighton, had given a fillip to bathing. Ironically, it is only since we have learned to dispense with bathing machines that the recreation has become really popular, but something is due to the memory of Benjamin Beale.

So little is known of Benjamin Beale that, though there are a dozen Beales in the Dictionary of National Biography, he is not one of them. And yet he made bathing practicable. Dr. Richard Russell might extol sea water. Sir John Floyer might exclaim, "Shower me with rain."

While travelling on a hill at Faysterville, N.Y., some essential part of this bus broke. Rolling backward out of control, it plunged through an abutment to drop 22 feet into the creek where it is shown. Three of 12 passengers were seriously injured.

CHINESE LAD TO BE BIRCHED

EUROPEAN GIRL ASSAULTED

In the Juvenile Court before Mr. E. W. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, a Hong-kong-born Chinese lad was ordered to be given twelve strokes on the back of common assault on Miss Muriel Smith, of No. 2 Kennedy

Amongst a large and varied selection of illustrations, in to-morrow's issue of the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement will be interesting pictures, taken at night, of the Military Tattoo.

Weddings illustrated will include those of Mr. W. Stoker and Miss Betty Moss; Mr. C. E. Coelho and Miss Eileen Sullivan; and Mr. Ma Yuen-chang and Miss Lee Oi-ming. There will be some interesting pictures of salvage work by H.M.S. Cornwall on the Chinese naval launch Hsi Tsun which foundered off Weihaiwei recently, whilst groups will include the Inter-Varsity sports champions, the Arts Association of the Hongkong University, and Queen's College swimming team.

A photograph showing progress on the new gaol at Stanley will also appear.

Road, at Battery Path on the night of October 26.

The defendant, it will be recalled, was remanded to the Remand Home from last week, in order to ascertain whether he was under the age limit or not.

Miss Smith was walking with her mother in Battery Path on the night of October 26 when defendant was alleged to have come up from behind. Her mother saw defendant and screamed out, and at the same time Miss Smith felt a hand on her back. Defendant was arrested by an Indian constable.

WOMAN HAWKER WAYLAIED

GAOL AND BIRCHING FOR ROBBERS

An incident on Island Road on September 9, when two men robbed a woman hawker of $72 in money, two gold finger rings and a pair of gold ear-rings, had a sequel before Mr. W. M. Thomson, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Tsui Kai, a coolie, was charged, the first defendant with theft from the person and the second defendant with aiding and abetting.

The complainant was Chan Luk, a woman hawk.

Sub-Inspector M. Murphy said the defendants set upon the woman when she was walking in Deep Water Bay towards Aberdeen. On Wednesday night, the police received information that the defendants were in a certain house in Wanchai. The house was raided, and the defendants arrested. The police took a serious view of the case.

On admitting the charge, defendants were sentenced to six months hard labour each, and also ordered to receive six strokes.

SEQUEL TO BOYS' QUARREL

ONE FATHER ATTACKS ANOTHER

Sentence of one month's hard labour was passed by Mr. Q. A. A. Macdwyen in the Central Police Court this morning on Ho Lam, an electrician, on a charge of assaulting Chai Chin, of No. 31 Upper Lascar Row, causing grievous bodily harm. The defendant pleaded guilty and stated that complainant attacked his son.

Detective-Sergeant Clarke stated that on Wednesday night the complainant was assaulted in Tung Street. The defendant hit him over the head four or five times with a stick. He was later arrested in an opium den. The trouble started earlier in the evening when the complainant's son and the defendant's son had a quarrel while they were playing together. The former's son complained that he had been struck.

Complainant had a scalp wound on the head that was very severe.

SERVANT ROBS STUDENT

AMAH BOUND OVER

Cho Yung, an amah, aged 25 years, appeared before Mr. W. M. Thomson, at the Central Magistracy this morning, on a charge of larceny by servant of 41 pieces of clothing and two gold pocket watches, to the total value of $338, from Li Him-tak, a student, at Pokfulam Road, on various dates between February 28 and October 23.

The defendant admitted the charge.

Sub-Inspector Fender said defendant had been employed by the complainant for the past four years. Since February last she had been gradually taking his clothing away. Last week she took a holiday for a week, and on Wednesday the complainant made a report to the police. The defendant was arrested, and in her possession were found a number of pawn tickets. It appeared she had got into trouble over a Money Loan Association, and had been pawning the clothing to raise money. All the articles had been recovered from the pawnshops. The complainant did not wish to press the charge.

Mr. Thomson bound defendant over in a personal bond of $100 to keep the peace for one year, and remarked he would give her a chance. She ought to thank her employer for it.

Egyptian Political Shake-Up

TWO MINISTERS RESIGN

Alexandria, Nov. 1. As a sequel to the recent quarrel between the British and Egyptian authorities here, King Fuad, in spite of his illness, granted an audience to Premier Yehiah Pasha to-day who tendered the resignations of Minister of Agriculture Memzalawi Bey and Minister of Communications Ibrahim Fahmy Pasha.

Premier Yehiah Pasha, following his audience, informed the press in emphatic terms that there was no possibility of the entire Cabinet resigning.

The cause of the quarrel with the Residency is said to be a belief on the part of Premier Yehiah Pasha that the British authorities overstepped their rights, according to the constitution, by suggesting certain provisions for securing liaison between the Residency and the Government during the King's illness. The acting High Commissioner has explained that the suggestion was made on the advice of White Hall and following a request by Premier Yehiah Pasha for a plan of procedure.—Reuter.

LABOUR'S GREAT VICTORY

A feature of the London polling is the complete rout of Communist candidates.—United Press.

TABLES TURNED.

London, Nov. 1. Sweeping Labour gains, especially in the industrial areas, have resulted up to now in the municipal elections in England and Wales. Labour's forces appear to be riding to victory in London, also, where 28 borough councils are elected on bloc every three years. This is consequently the first election since the Labour rout in 1911 immediately after the general election.

Labour has turned the tables in London and has already made sure of six boroughs in addition to the four previously held. The biggest victory was at Southwark where fifty-two seats were gained out of a possible fifty-three. The Municipal Reformers (Conservatives) were obliterated.

ENORMOUS GAINS.

An all-Labour Council rules at Poplar and a solitary anti-Socialist alderman defies Labour in Bermondsey. On the other hand Municipal Reformers monopolise again in the Westminster Council.

One third of the provincial borough councils are elected every three years, thus the elections amount to annual affairs.

With 98 district results coming in, the present standing is:—

| | Gains | Losses |
|---------------|-------|--------|
| Labour | 203 | 8 |
| Conservatives | 13 | 109 |
| Liberals | 4 | 34 |
| Independents | 5 | 74 |

Labour has gained control of Hull, Derby, Burnley, Oldham, and Stoke-on-Trent.—Reuter.

BRITISH ATTITUDE.

London, Nov. 1. Maintenance of law and order in the Saar plebiscite and the French threat to move troops into the region is being given the closest attention by the Government. It is learned that as a signatory of the Treaty of Versailles the British Government desires that the plebiscite be held fairly and is convinced that the League is taking adequate precautions to ensure this.

While regarding France's attitude as an entirely proper one the Government does not think the French fears are likely to materialise unless the parties in the Saar lose all sense of responsibility. At present Britain does not intend to take any special action.—Reuter.

ALL THE FUN OF THE FAIR

Old and young alike are entered for in the galaxy of entertainment provided by Tait's Carnival which this week hosted its familiar tents on the vacant plot against the Peninsula Hotel.

There are more attractions than ever in this year's programme and the number of people who have availed themselves of an unusual opportunity for gaiety of the English village fair type, and the more up-to-date novelties, augurs well for the remainder of Tait's stay in the Colony.

The popular "Dodgems" draw their usual large number of enthusiasts, while others flocked to "Leaping Lena" and the Big Wheel. The Merry-Go-Round, the Slide, and the Wall of Death received their well deserved patronage, while Tarzan and the Hula dancers gave exhibitions both thrilling and weird.

Perhaps one of the outstanding events of each evening is the big diving act in which Peckay Higgins does a back somersault from a 100 feet high pole into a ridiculously small tank of water. He is accompanied by a lady partner who also dives from the pole at a lower point.

BIG MONEY FOR BABE RUTH

New York, Nov. 1. Ray L. Don, the sports promoter, announced that he had called an offer of $35,000 to Babe Ruth to play for his House of David bearded baseball team next season.

The Club travels as an independent organisation, whiskers and all. But Don says Ruth won't be required to stop shaving.

ROAD SMOOTHED FOR TRADE

London, Nov. 1. The Anglo-German debts clearing agreement, terms of which were given by the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman, in the House of Commons, was initiated in Berlin to-day.

In his statement Mr. Runciman said that for some time during the negotiations it appeared no solution of the difficulties could be found, except along the lines of a clearing agreement, in spite of the drawbacks of such a system and the hindrances which it inevitably placed upon the flow of trade. The draft clearing agreement which, it was hoped, would avoid major difficulties inherent in such an arrangement, and pitfalls which had prevented the successful working of similar agreements between Germany and other countries, had, however, been agreed upon.

Towards the end of negotiations the German Government put forward an alternative proposal with the object of safeguarding payment for current exports of United Kingdom goods to Germany and enabling outstanding debts to be liquidated without setting up a clearing system. The basis of this proposal was that the German Government would guarantee that 65 per cent. of the value of German exports to the United Kingdom should be definitely earmarked for payment of United Kingdom exports to Germany. This allocation should, according to the normal trend of Anglo-German trade, be sufficient to ensure full payment.

REICHSBANK AID.

The Reichsbank will provide immediately not less than £400,000 for liquidation of outstanding commercial debts and will also expedite their liquidation by realisation of outstanding German commercial claims on the United Kingdom, whether by credit operation or otherwise. Insofar as these measures are not sufficient the Reichsbank will set aside an additional percentage, provisionally fixed at 10 per cent. of the value of German exports to the United Kingdom, sufficient to ensure liquidation of all outstanding debts within twelve months. Sondermarks, standing in the special account under the exchange agreement of August last, as well as those waiting to go into that account, will continue to be sold by the Bank of England and further arrangements will be made whereby with the help of credit operation, and if necessary of a charge upon the 65 per cent. earmarked for current trade purposes, Sondermarks will be liquidated within three months.

At the outset foreign exchange certificates for the import of United Kingdom goods into Germany will be issued without restriction, but the German Government after consultation with the British Government may temporarily restrict the issue of such certificates. But in exercising this control they will give special consideration to exports of Germany which are particularly important to the British, namely coal and coke, herring, yarns, tissues and textile manufactures.

The German Government further agrees that it will continue, as from January 1 next to pay full interest on bonds of the Dawes and Young Loans in beneficial ownership of British holders on June 15 last and will offer to British holders of Non-Relch Loans 4 per cent. funding bonds guaranteed by the German Government and exempt from transfer restrictions, on the understanding that British holders who accept this offer take the funding bonds in full settlement of any coupons funded.

Mr. Runciman said the agreement reached embodied these arrangements. In case it should not prove successful provision had been made for its replacement by a clearing arrangement. The agreement was the best possible in the circumstances but he did not suggest it would remove all difficulties in the way of Anglo-German trade and he advised exporters to continue to proceed with caution.—British Wireless.

ARMS TRAFFIC

The British Government has
cause for satisfaction in the fact
that the lead which it took in
urging an international agreement
to prevent the supply of
arms to Paraguay and Bolivia
has resulted in all the arms-
manufacturing nations approach-
ed by the League of Nations
Committee agreeing to enforce
the embargo. The development
is all the more gratifying from
the fact that there are no reservations laid down with regard to
tracts. The recent Arms Inquiry in Washington threw a
great deal of light on the traffic
in death-dealing weapons and it
should not be long before a considered report is issued, when it will be possible to form final conclusions on the subject. Even
at this stage, however, some
general impression can be gained
of what has been revealed so far
by the inquiry. For example,
it is to be noted that the private
arms industry appears to be
truly "international" in its
policy. Not only does each individual firm carry its trade to
the ends of the earth, and in search of profit sell its goods
indifferently to both sides in an actual or possible conflict. But
readiness to form cartels and to
unite with competing firms,
when it pays to do so, in order to keep up market prices. This method of business is common of
course in a greater or less degree
to all industries; but as the
customers of armament firms
are invariably Governments,
there is surely something peculiarly sinister in the evidence
which has been given of the
bribery, open or covert,
successful or unsuccessful, of Government officials that seems
to be its generally recognised
practice. Another point has also become clear. The orthodox
defence of the manufacture of
arms for private profit is that in times of peace the firms so engaged are saving the Government and taxpayer from the need
of maintaining its own arsenals,
and in times of war their plant
and their expert skill can be used at once for the enormous expansion of ammunition-making that

is required. They are, in fact,
it is said, rendering a patriotic
service to their country. The value of this argument may be tested in the light of such
evidence as was wrung from Mr.
Young, of the American Federal Laboratories Company. He
knew that "a large part of our national defence policy is based on the possibility of war with Japan"—and yet was quite willing to sell munitions to Japan
and at a proper price the formu-
lae and instructions for use of
his Company's gases. Comment
is unnecessary. The Covenant
of the League of Nations declares the manufacture by
private enterprise of the munitions of war to be "open to grave
objections". This inquiry, like
many before it, is showing what
those objections are. Surely all persons—except possibly share-
holders—would gladly support
their Governments if they proposed the absolute prohibition
of this particular business.

NOTES OF THE DAY

DANGER POINT

The newest danger point in Europe is the Saar. Germany
wants it back again, and the Nazis
have been behaving in a manner
which has aroused suspicion—
especially French suspicion—that a putsch of some sort may be attempted prior to the plebiscite on January 13, 1935. On that date
the people of the Saar are to vote
on a straight-forward ballot: Do
you wish to remain under League
of Nations administration, or do
you wish to return to Germany?
It is simple enough. If left alone,
the people of the Saar would decide the issue for themselves, and
without much hard feeling, one
way or another. Unfortunately,
however, certain elements have been at work stirring up antagonisms and the situation has become more and more complicated, and
more threatening. So great is the French distrust of the position
that two full army corps are ready
to march into the region if there
is any sign of Nazi terrorism.
The French troops could be in
occupation in two hours, they
claim. The repercussions of an attempted Nazi coup would be most
grave in these circumstances.

VITAL QUESTIONS

The vital questions which the League of Nations officials are asking one another seem to be:
Will it be possible for Saar inhabitants to vote in safety and in
secret? Can the Governing Commission of the League carry on
until then, and be strong enough
to ensure an orderly plebiscite, in view of the campaign of intimidation liable to be carried on within
the region and directed by Nazis
in Germany? Such questions are
not unreasonable in the light of recent developments in the Saar. At
the beginning of the year Nazi
organisations headed by the Deutsche Front had interfered so
seriously with administration that
the League Council was faced in January with unexpected difficulties in preparing for the plebiscite
and a Special Committee of three,
headed by Baron Aloisi of Italy,
was appointed to determine the
best and safest means of holding
the plebiscite. Meanwhile, the Nazis were broadcasting from Frankfurt and other stations vilify-
ing the Governing Commission and
attacking Roman Catholics and Socialists, their opponents in the Saar. German statesmen threatened reprisals on those un-
sympathetic to Herr Hitler when
the Saar returned to Germany.
The Deutsche Front attempted to
supercede the Commission, representing to the League that only
it could guarantee a safe and
secret vote. There were hostile
demonstrations against Socialists,
Communists and French visitors
and the Saar police refused to act.
More recently both French and German Governments gave an undertaking that they would not attempt
to interfere with the plebiscite.
Peace was in sight.

NOT FOR LONG

It was soon apparent, however,
that the Deutsche Front was working with Nazis in Germany to deter
opposition of pro-Germanism.
There were black-lists and more
promises of reprisals, and the situation in the Saar was stated in colourful language by Herr Hitler himself, when he
said: "In spite of oppression,
trickery, terror, want and misery
the German people of the Saar
... have for fifteen years carried on an heroic and unprecedented
fight for their German Father-
land." A continuation of this sort
of propagandising has caused re-
sentment in France, in the League
and in the Saar itself. Out of it grows the threat of conflict and French intervention.

sion of ammunition-making that
is required. They are, in fact,
it is said, rendering a patriotic
service to their country. The value of this argument may be tested in the light of such
evidence as was wrung from Mr.
Young, of the American Federal Laboratories Company. He
knew that "a large part of our national defence policy is based on the possibility of war with Japan"—and yet was quite willing to sell munitions to Japan
and at a proper price the formu-
lae and instructions for use of
his Company's gases. Comment
is unnecessary. The Covenant
of the League of Nations declares the manufacture by
private enterprise of the munitions of war to be "open to grave
objections". This inquiry, like
many before it, is showing what
those objections are. Surely all persons—except possibly share-
holders—would gladly support
their Governments if they proposed the absolute prohibition

ONLY ROAD TO SAFETY IN FLYING

By AMY MOLLISON

NO official reports have yet been
published on the recent air
disasters, but it is in any event
unlikely that the real causes of
the accidents will ever be known.
This is unfortunate, for to know
the reasons for any trouble is the first step towards curing it.

However, one can always specu-
late on the probable causes, and by
a process of elimination reduce the number to one or two of the most likely.

The real cause of any accident
must lie, broadly speaking, in one
of two directions: failure of material or failure of the human element to cope with the emergency.
The causes commonly labelled as
"Acts of God" are so rare that they need not be considered. In any event they can't be helped; but all
others could be prevented if we
knew what was wrong.

Much is talked about our having
too many regulations, but my own
view is that though the private
individual should be allowed to do
as he likes with his own life, the
moment other people's lives are involved wise restrictions should be enforced.

In the aviation world rules and regulations abound. They are supposed to be all safety precautions, but whether the Government
guards the public at large as zealously and effectively as it plays nurserymaid to would-be youthful
pilots is a moot point. Aircraft
manufacturers and technical experts say "No."

The editor of one of our best-
known aviation technical magazines, noted for its extreme views,
which in this case, however, have
a constructive trend, recently
made the following sweeping condemnation of the Air Ministry's
system of aircraft inspection:

"Many times in this paper we
have drawn attention to the fact
that, although the stamp of the Aeronautical Inspection Director-
ate is a half-mark which guarantees
that the material and workmanship
in an aeroplane is all that it should
be, the Air Ministry's Airworthi-
ness Certificate, which is based on
stress calculations and aerodynamic
qualifications, is useless."
"The question that everybody
concerned with the progress of
aviation should ask those in authority is: How much longer are we
and other nations going to keep up
this farce of certifying an aero-plane in airworthy when, in fact, it is not?"

He goes on to repeat emphatically that

"The folly of the whole principle
of certification is shown by the fact
that perfectly airworthy aeroplanes
are disqualified, either because
their calculations do not please the
self-appointed scientists or because
they will not pass certain flying
tests which in the judgment of competent operators of aircraft are unnecessary."

"In spite of all our stress calculations, aeroplanes which are passed
as airworthy fall to pieces in the
air."

It is fairly generally known that
every aeroplane, before it is allowed to fly for any purpose whatever (except, of course, testing), must
have a Certificate of Airworthiness
issued by the Air Ministry.

To qualify for this certificate all
aeroplanes, no matter of what size,
or shape, or for what purpose they
are intended, must pass certain uniform tests.

That the tests are exactly the
same for all aircraft surely points
to a complete lack of vision. The
strain put upon an aeroplane used
for continuous aerobatics is in
some degree different from that
imposed on an ordinary commercial air-liner which makes nothing
but the gentlest of turns, or the
machine used for joy riding, which
spends most of its time being
bumped over rough ground where
the strain and vibration are much
greater than in the air.

Yet all these differing types are
judged, approved, or disapproved
by the same tests.

There are nowadays a large
number of safety devices available,
but practically none of them is
made compulsory in our air-liners.

For example, it is admitted that multi-engine machines are safer,
especially for land machines crossing stretches of water; but there
is no regulation to the effect that
paying passengers must be protected in such an obvious way.

Again, there are on the market
reliable controllable-pitch propel-
lers which, besides increasing the
performance of an aircraft, offer
an added margin of safety to the
take-off.

These propellers, by utilising a
low pitch corresponding to the low
gear of a car, enable a plane to be lifted off the ground much more
quickly than with any other kind
of propeller.

This is so obviously an advantage, especially in taking off full loads from water-logged aéro-dromes, or flying straight off into fog where unseen obstacles have to be cleared which are normally
skirted, that the Air Ministry's
attitude towards these propellers
is hard to understand.

I was told on very good authority
that the Air Ministry propeller expert remarked that in his opinion
they were of no practical use.

The De Havilland Aircraft Company, who built the "Comet" for the Australian race, have definitely
stated that without controllable-
pitch propellers they would have
been unable to secure adequate
performance in the race while at
the same time conforming to the Air Ministry's compulsory standards of airworthiness.

Aids to flying through bad
weather are now perfected so that there is no excuse whatever for a
normal aeroplane piloted by a
qualified pilot and carrying wire-
less and blind-flying instruments
to get out of control in clouds.

Yet there is no regulation making the carrying of such equipment compulsory in our air-liners,
nor are the pilots required to have any training in blind-flying technique.

Air Ministry regulations are
obsolete and are not adequate to cope with present conditions.
They should immediately be brought up to date before we have
more avoidable accidents.

The official findings as to causes
of accidents should be made
public, and an assurance given
that everything possible will be done to avoid similar occurrences
in the future.

A few days ago I flew on a
demonstration flight of the new

POLICE THROWN IN LAGOON

ENORMOUS DAMAGE

Chicago, Nov. 1. The Chicago World's Fair closed with scenes of the wildest disorder. Boisterous crowds turned ugly when they had felt their strength and did enormous damage throughout the fair grounds.

Revellers spent the night pillaging the booths and doing wanton damage valued at $150,000. They wrecked the model villages and pitched furniture and policemen who attempted to intervene into the lagoon.

They drank every drop of beer at the fair, breaking into the stores held by concessionaires. Scores of employees of various establishments fled in terror before the surging crowds which steadily grew in numbers and in courage.

One of the last outrages was the invasion of the model Italian village. The crowd became infuriated when Sally Rand, the fan dancer, refused to perform because the night was too cold. The mob went wild and tore things to pieces. Police were helpless and the disorders continued until the crowd had exhausted its energy.—Reuter.

CHANGTING SURRENDER

REDS DRIVEN FROM FUKIEN CITY

Foochow, Nov. 2. A military report from Lunghyn, in Southern Fukien, states that the Government troops occupied the city of Changting at noon yesterday without meeting serious opposition from the Reds, who are believed to have abandoned the city long before the arrival of the Government troops. With the fall of Changting, the Reds have entirely lost their last foothold in Fukien.

A subsequent report states that the Government troops entered the city of Changting and have started rehabilitation work. Emergency measures are being taken to relieve the refugees and sufferers in the city.—Central News.

JOHNSON'S HOLIDAY

TELLS U.S. ABOUT CHINA

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Nov. 1. Mr. Nelson Johnson, the American Minister to China, who arrived here to-day, stated that conditions in China were really good and very quiet, comparatively, in spite of the effects of the depression.

He is renewing contracts with officials here and next month will enjoy a short vacation in Wyoming.—United Press.

AMERICA FIGHTS MONOPOLY

FAR EAST OIL TRADE BARRED

JAPAN HELD RESPONSIBLE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Nov. 1. It is learned that the State Department is considering further representations to Japan, concerning the Manchukuo oil situation.

The United States considers the proposed oil monopoly a distinct violation of the Japanese "Open Door" policy in the Far East and another move to clarify the position is imminent.

The United States, it is said, considers Japan directly responsible for the maintenance of the "Open Door" in Manchukuo and will resist Japanese efforts to evade responsibility by attempting to have the United States deal with Manchukuo direct. Manchukuo, at least unofficially, is regarded as a Japanese puppet state.

MANCHUKUO IGNORED.

It is indicated clearly that the United States has no intention of holding conversations with Manchukuo in the matter of the oil monopoly.

It is the official contention that Japan cannot evade her responsibility in her apparent attempt to close the door of Manchukuo commerce to the rest of the world. That Japan herself is responsible is revealed by the fact that the proposed Manchukuo oil monopoly would be financed with 80 per cent. of Japanese capital.—United Press.

TOE IN THE DOOR.

Washington, Nov. 1. The United States has no intention of relaxing its efforts to maintain the "Open Door" in the Far East, declared the Under-Secretary of State, Mr. Phillips, to-day.

The Government was considering its next move in regard to the proposed Manchukuo oil monopoly, he said.

Americans took the position that Japan had promised to maintain the "Open Door" policy in Manchukuo, and that they were consequently entitled to expect freedom of operation there.

Washington may make further representations to Tokyo unless a solution is reached.—Reuter.

It is expected that it will be available to members on the evening of November 21 and will be published in the Press on the following morning.—British Wireless.

Mexico Expelling Bishops?

RENEWED WAR WITH CHURCH

CATHOLICS FACE SEDITION CHARGE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Mexico City, Nov. 1. It is learned that Attorney General Portes Gil intends soon to present evidence alleging sedition against high Roman Catholic prelates in Mexico and also to initiate prosecutions.

It is understood the charges concern the churchmen's opposition to the Government's rationalistic education programme under the Six-Year Reconstruction Plan. President Rodriguez in a letter to the Attorney General in which he ordered an inquiry into the churchmen's activities, including their citizenship status, states that he is proceeding with a plan to expel these churchmen from Mexico.

DUKE OF YORK'S TRIBUTE

HUGE MEETING

London, Nov. 1. H.R.H. the Duke of York paid a warm tribute to the Salvation Army at a huge meeting in the Albert Hall, London, to-day, when the Army said farewell to its retiring head, General Higgins.

Cabinet Ministers, Ambassadors and many other distinguished people, including representatives of other faiths and denominations, were present. The Duke said the Salvation Army made a great claim upon the regard not only of members of the Royal Family, but of all sincere and thoughtful people, because it helped undoubtedly to make for more tolerant religious opinions and class distinctions. "I believe," he said, "there is to-day more mutual sympathy and understanding nationally and internationally, and the Salvation Army, among other religious and philanthropic bodies, has had a full share in bringing that about. If an example were required as proof, it is here this afternoon. On this platform are leading representatives of many faiths, Anglican, Non-conformist, Catholic, Jew, Hindu and Mohammedan, met here in glad accord to show their appreciation of the leader of another religious body and thus pay their tribute to the work of the Salvation Army."—British Wireless.

Thomson, at the Central Magistracy this morning, on Wong Hin, unemployed, charged by Sergeant Moran with having returned from banishment. Defendant was banished for a period of ten years in February this year. Sergeant Moran said defendant had a very bad record.

The extraordinary general meeting convened to effect the voluntary winding up of the Hongkong Plym Club, has been postponed for a second time owing to absence of a quorum. Included in the business on the agenda was a resolution to retain the surplus funds of the Club until such time as a similar club is formed or, failing such formation, within one year, to hand the funds to the Government.

An old woman, Li Shu-tai, and 70, was fatally injured yesterday through a fall when cutting grass on the hillside, above the Takoo Sugar Refinery. She died on arrival at the Government Civil Hospital.

Fatally injured through a fall from the second floor verandah of No. 3 West Street, Quarry Bay an 8-year-old girl, Choy Chan, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday, where she died.

Six months' hard labour was the sentence imposed upon Wong Siu-wah, 18-year-old unemployed, when he appeared before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, charged with the theft of a radiator cap, the property of Miss George. The radiator cap was stolen from private car No. 308, which was parked outside No. 7 Tak Shing Street on Wednesday. Detective Sergeant Franklin stated that the defendant had five previous convictions.

Theft by finding a bag top cover formed the subject of a charge brought against Shum Yek, 40, a coolie, when he appeared before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning. He pleaded guilty. Sub-inspector J. Dreese stated that complainant, Li Chi, an amah employed at No. 53 Jervois Street, and the defendant knew each other by sight. The defendant stated to the police that he saw the cover, which had been put out to dry, blown off the line, but instead of returning it to the owner sold it to a man for 20 cents. A fine of $10, or fourteen days' hard labour, was imposed.

GOOD RACE PROGRAMME AT HAPPY VALLEY TO-MORROW

FINE GALLOPING COURSE ASSURED

(By "Captain Foster")

A good galloping course is assured for to-morrow's racing at Happy Valley. The Card consists of eight races and the Meeting promises to be an exciting one, with close finishes in the majority of the events. Judge Tester will, I think, have a busy time separating the ponies as they go past the winning post.

I cannot definitely name a sure winner, there being no outstanding pony in any race unless we consider Electric Star for the Hongkong Griffins Cup. Here again I do not make her a certainty. In these circumstances I would counsel caution, as it does not seem to me to be a day in which one can attend the races with betting boots on.

SUSSEX HANDICAP.

Although there are eleven entries for this race of six furlongs, I think we should concentrate on Bold Commander, Chesterfield, in Good Time, Little Beauty and The Bodega. I think the winner and placed ponies will be found amongst them. On his recent running, The Bodega appeals to me as a safe each way bet, and I am inclined to pick him as the winner. Bold Commander ran a good honest pony at Macao last Sunday and there is no reason why he should not give as good a display to-morrow. If he does, I make him most dangerous. In Good Time and Little Beauty are good, and either of them can very easily be returned the winner. Chesterfield is another pony that can, on his best running, cause an upset by catching the Judge's eye first. He is fast over a short distance.

NULLAH NULLAH PLATE.

We shall be treated to a good race and an exciting finish in this sprint confined to Australian ponies. I do not think we shall see more than seven starters, and feel that the ponies concerned with the finish will be Nell Gwyn, Bronze Era, Snucy Face and Night Star. I hesitate to name the winner as I feel that the luck of the race will be the deciding factor. Nell Gwyn, however, has the best credentials: she is looking well and moving nicely. On a good course I am prepared to see the record lowered, as the ponies I imagine, will go "flat out" from the start. Bronze Era will offer a stiff challenge to Nell Gwyn, but whether he will be able to maintain the terrific speed at which the race will be run is a debatable point. Snucy Face has a strong rush and she may be up with the leaders at the finish. I was particularly impressed with the running of Night Star on her last outing. She was none too lucky then but—good as she is—I am afraid the other three ponies I have named are just a little too good for her. She is, however, very game, and therefore I shall not be surprised

It looks as if we shall see a small but select field for this race. Half of the entrants, however, do not appear to be genuine middle distance runners. On form, Electric Star shows up the best of all the ponies but it is problematical whether she will stay the course in a fast run-race. She has class and for this reason I am inclined to tip her. Neither Gladiator nor King's Fancy can be described as mile and a quarter ponies at the moment, but they also possess class. Ribble and Soldier of China can be relied on to stay the course. Last Wednesday morning, Ribble put up a most satisfactory gallop over 1½ miles. The total time was 3-36, last mile 2-12, last ½ mile under 1-03, finishing in 30 seconds. Soldier of Germany will also be a competitor. I expect to see an interesting race but, as it will be an event full of possibilities, backers should act warily.

KENT HANDICAP.

A good field will muster for this event. Valorous has been allotted top weight. Frankly I do not think he can win carrying 105 lbs. Budge has been off colour lately but if he can produce a semblance of his form of last Spring, I make him most dangerous. The more so, in view of his light weight of 140 lbs. Jungle Jim, I thought, won his race last time out somewhat easily, and there is no reason why he should not again win. The Tiger, Racing Boy, Flying Tourist, Wayward Stag and Wonderful Stag should be carefully considered but, perhaps, the distance may be a little short for Wonderful Stag. Of these five ponies I favour The Tiger and Racing Boy. These two can be depended upon to put up a good race. Lemberg, at 158 lbs should not be forgotten, nor should Daylight Eve at 140 lbs and Pride of Tinsdale at 160 lbs. Spinaway, a recently demoted pony, may also figure prominently at the finish. A good race will doubtless be witnessed, and it is safe to say that the winner will return a good dividend, if not the best during the afternoon.

SUFFOLK HANDICAP.

style at the moment—and in my opinion—a safe each way bet. No Fear, Fl. Fa, Burgomaster, Chivalrous and Warrington will all show up at the finish. The capabilities of these ponies are well known to you and therefore require no elaboration from me.

SURREY HANDICAP.

I am in a dilemma over this race, and finding the winner is almost as difficult as looking for a needle in a haystack. Mr. Dunbar will be starting both Glenegles and Oak Bay, and I will confess that I have a strong "hunch" for Glenegles. I saw him move last Tuesday morning, and although the time was slow, he gave me the impression of finishing strongly and well within himself. I prefer him to Oak Bay. King's Bounty is in form but there is an "if" as to whether the distance will not be just beyond his power in this company of good ponies. His stable companion King's Warden rather surprised the talent by covering the mile in 2-10 last Wednesday morning. The last half was negotiated in under 1-02, but I thought he was labouring somewhat at the finish. His chances of finishing one, two or three are bright. Macaroni and Mayflower, in my opinion, can be ignored but in any case, they can only be considered as place ponies at best. I cannot see either of them finishing in front of the ponies above referred to. Brechin at the weights does not appeal, not even as a place proposition.

SUFFOLK HANDICAP.

The recently demoted ponies Chief Seattle, Glad Eyes and Solar Star, especially the two former ponies, should not be left out of one's calculations. Sandy Bay is also worthy of consideration. West Parade carries top-weight and will run well, but I am afraid she is not good enough to tackle the ponies above mentioned. She moved nicely in her gallop last Wednesday morning, and took 1-38 to negotiate three-quarters of a mile. Partnership strikes me as an improving pony. I make Alnerchy (if started here) a sound each way proposition. Australian Boy can be depended upon to run well, and Empire Day—on her last running—must be considered. Lucy Gitters may run into a place but I cannot see her winning. I have not heard whether Portin is a contender but feel

OPPONENT UPSET BY "FANCY DRESS"

A young woman golfer caused a sensation at Searcroft, Skegness recently when she went round in tight-fitting, beautifully creased dark blue trousers, strapped under suede shoes to match; a white pullover; a close-fitting blue hat; and white gloves.

She was Miss Gloria Minoprio, who is 25, of Littlestone, Kent. Playing with only one club, she won her first round in the English Women's Golf Championship, beating Miss Betty Sommerville, of Faversham, Kent, by 2 up and 1 to play. Her one club was a straight-faced iron with a green painted shaft.

FROWNING WOMEN.

The ensemble, her pale, beautiful face and her stately carriage, made her the centre of attraction, and a big crowd—the women frowning

doubtfully and the men startled by such an unusual personality—followed her match.

It was an ordeal for Miss Sommerville, who was playing in her first championship. She was upset by the big crowd and failed to do herself justice.

When I asked if she was not nervous, Miss Sommerville said: "I felt dreadful."

"UNUSUAL CLOTHES."

"I felt as though I was 12 years old instead of 22."

"I think it was hard on one to have to play against an opponent who wears such unusual clothes and plays in such a peculiar manner. It was like playing against somebody in fancy dress."

that the distance will be too far for her to be concerned with the finish. Friday is by no means a foregone hope.

PICK OF GAMES DOWN FOR SUNDAY

(By "Veritas").

Generally speaking, local soccer over the week-end provides little over which to enthuse. One or two interesting ties are due to be played off, but the rest of the programme will more than likely turn out into one-sided affairs.

In the Senior Division at any rate, Sunday is now just as important a day as Saturday. This week, for instance, there are six matches down for decision, and three of them will be played to-morrow and the other three on Sunday. Although they have shown a gradual improvement in their recent games, Kowloon are not expected to lower the colours of the undefeated South China "B". The game will be played on the Kowloon F. C. ground. Cord, the Kowloon custodian, has been absent for the past fortnight. He will return to the ranks to-morrow and will be thoroughly tested by the Chinese sharpshooters. Boys, who have been substituting for Cord, is not nearly up to Cord's standard, but his two displays between the sticks have been quite creditable.

I am afraid the Club will prove too good for the Royal Artillery at Happy Valley, and they should be able to garner both points. The Club's defence is as solid as a rock these days and it takes more than an average forward line to break through it.

Ernie Strange has yet to shoot his first goal this season. In the game between the Club and South China "B" last week, he and Albert Howe were too closely watched to be effective, but I can see Strange's chance to do something to-morrow. Pardoe will have to be very good to stop these two.

RECREIO v. NAVY.

Perhaps the most even game of the three will be the Recreio-Navy encounter, which will be played at Caroline Hill. For the Recreio, Beltrao has recovered sufficiently to take back his old position at centre, thus enabling B. Gosano to strengthen the forward line. A. V. Gosano is still on the injured list, I understand, and will not be able to participate.

With several of their ships still away, the Navy have not settled down to their regular team yet. They are improving with every appearance, however, and held the Borderers last week to two goals.

This match should provide the most interesting football for the day, and it is a toss-up, in view of the Navy's uncertain qualities, as to which team will win. Sunday should provide better fare for football enthusiasts. Some good football should be seen in the games between St. Joseph's and South China "A",

Borderers and Police, and East Lancs, and the Lincolns.

South China's position at the top of the League table will not be endangered by the Collegians, who are deteriorating. South China "A" had a narrow shave against the China Athletic last week, but they will not allow their opponents so much rope this week.

Whether the Borderers-Police match is going to be a good game, will depend entirely on the Police. They have the makings of a fine side, but their players seem to be possessed of mercurial qualities. On their day, they are one of the most difficult sides to beat, but when they are off colour, they are one of the worst teams in the League. The Borderers ought to get through without much difficulty.

It is difficult to say which side will win in the game between the East Lancs, and the Lincolns. The latter are not what they were last year, whereas the East Lancs are beginning to settle down into quite a useful combination. I favour them to beat the Lincolns.

LOCAL SHIELD TIES.

South China have entered two teams for the Senior Shield Competition of the Hongkong Football Association, the first round of which is due to be played during the first week-end in January.

There are altogether twelve teams entered for the Senior Shield, and thirteen for the Junior event.

The full list of entries follows: Senior Shield:—Royal Artillery, Club de Recreio, South China A. A. "A", South China A. A. "B", Kowloon Football Club, East Lancashire Regiment, St. Joseph's, Hongkong Football Club, Royal Navy, Lincolnshire Regiment, Royal Welsh Fusiliers (who are relieving the South Wales Borderers, holders) and the Hongkong Police.

Junior Shield:—Royal Engineers, Royal Artillery, Club de Recreio, South China A. A., Kowloon Football Club, East Lancashire Regiment, R. A. M. C., R. A. O. C., Hongkong Football Club, Royal Navy (holders), Lincolnshire Regiment, Royal Welsh Fusiliers and Hongkong Police.

Kowloon's Senior Team.

The following will represent the Kowloon Football Club in their First Division League match against South China "B" at Kowloon to-morrow, starting at 4.15 p.m.:—C. A. Cord; B. Everest and A. Eastman (Capt.); J. T. K. Gilchrist; A. S. Bliss and B. Whitehead; A. T. Lee, H. C. Elliott, G. White, V. White and D. Knox.

Spectacular Show At Sookunpoo

Opening in dramatic fashion with a salvo of guns and a fanfare of trumpets, the Grand Tattoo staged by the military forces at Sookunpoo last night was carried through in perfect manner, the display being worthy of the best traditions of the Army.

A large and distinguished gathering included H.E. the G.O.C., Major General O. C. Borrett, C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., who attended with his wife, and Capt. J. J. Abbot,
A.D.C., and a party of friends.

Sookunpoo presented a spectacular appearance with its green award representing the arena for martial conflicts; its pavilion overtopped by a mediaeval castle and frowned upon by a skilful representation of the City of Moscow.

Throughout the programme soldiers in the costumes of long-past periods bore banners and trumpets into the mimic fray while the stirring music of massed bands made striking contrast to the whoops of Indians in dancing and warlike postures.

The heroic defence of Rorke's
Drift, in which the South Wales Borderers gained undying glory
in the Zulu War, was fittingly portrayed by men of the same regiment.

There followed a picturesque torchlight parade by the 1st Bn.
the Punjab Regiment, the darkness adding an eerie aspect to the scene.

The bands of the Lincolns, South Wales Borderers, and the East
Lancashires, under Bandmaster Trowl, gave all that music could do to embellish the magnificent effect, their performances in the burning of the City of Moscow being outstanding.

"A Military Fantasy" was another effective item and praise cannot be withheld from the Loch Ness monster interlude which drew roars of laughter from the crowd.

In contrast to the old-time acts was an excellent exhibition of physical drill by picked men of the Lincolns.

The beating of the tattoo—an essential part of the programme—was thrillingly done and gave opportunity for a lavish display of marching and counter marching.

The Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps were given the chance of showing the public modern warfare conditions, and their celerity and efficiency were greatly admired. The M. G. Troop, the Motor Machine Gun Section and the Armoured Car Section were supplemented by a detachment of infantry and a battery of the H.K.S.R.A.

Members of the Lam Cho Athletic Society were responsible for the presentation of two Chinese lions at play—an act which symbolises good luck and is usually given at festivals. The Royal Corps of Signals gave a clever demonstration of control by wireless in the future.

An impressive finale was the community singing of "Land of Hope and Glory," two verses of "Abide with Me," and the National Anthem.

The Tattoo is being repeated tonight and to-morrow and should on no account be missed.

TROUBLE ON THE "SIRDHANA"

FIVE MEN ON ASSAULT CHARGES

Five Chinese appeared before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon magistracy this morning, on charges of assault.

The first two defendants, Ho Kam-chuen, 26 years, a boarding house runner, and Ho Yat-fa, 26 years, a travelling trader, were charged with assaulting Hau Kuk Sik-mul, and causing him grievous bodily harm.

The assault took place on the steamer Sirdhana at No. 2 Wharf at the Kowloon Wharf and Godowns, at 9.30 a.m. on Wednesday. The complainant fell into a hold and received severe injury to his neck. He is at present in the hospital, where he expected to be detained until February.

The three other men, Chan Kam-chuen, 27 years, Wong Kuk 17 years, and Lam Shui-kam, 64 years, who are all described as boarding house runners, were charged with assaulting Au Ah-sung on the same steamer on Wednesday. The first two defendants were likewise charged on this count.

The case was remanded until Monday, in order to take depositions from the complainant. The first two defendants were not allowed bail, but the others were allowed bail of $50.

All defendants are natives of Poochow.

Speed Not The Only Factor

London, Nov. 1. The Under-Secretary for Air, Sir Philip Sassoon, in reply to questions in Parliament, said proposals for curtailing the times taken by existing Empire air services had been under consideration for several months.

He could not make any statement at present, but wished to infer

CHINA'S GREAT FUTURE

MME. CHIANG'S HOPE FOR PEACE

NEW POLICIES IN POLITICS

Peking, Nov. 2. During an informal chat with foreign newspapermen last evening, Madame Chiang Kai-shek spoke of the pleasure she derived from her recent aerial tour to the north-west of China, when she accompanied General Chiang.

She said that among the faults of the past policies in China politics was the gulf which separated the leaders from the people. It was their intention, now, she said, to make many more such trips in the future.

She felt that China's greatest hope lay in the new life movement which had been launched with the object of preserving the best of China's ancient culture which the country so greatly needed. The co-operation of foreign missionaries had been enlisted because they were close to the people and able to help the movement.

She predicted that China had every chance of some day becoming the greatest nation in the world, possibly within ten years' time, given a period of peace and prosperity which she felt was now assured.—Reuter.

that, important as is the speed factor in commercial air transport, other considerations, such as safety, reliability, regularity and comfort, had also to be taken into account.

As an instance he cited the London-Paris route, where, despite the fact that a foreign line had been re-equipped with faster machines, Imperial Airways had carried three times more passengers in the last three months. Compared with the same period last year, Imperial Airways' passengers on that route had increased, while those of the foreign line had decreased by nearly 30 per cent.—British Wireless.

London, Nov. 1. The President of the Disarmament Conference, Mr. Arthur Henderson, has been studying with the Secretary General of the League, M. Avenol, who is at present in London, the future course of the Disarmament Conference.

The Secretary of the Conference in the course of a recent visit to Paris, on Mr. Henderson's behalf, had been in touch with the Vice-President of the Conference, M. Politis, representative of his Government and of certain other Powers, and was able to lay his information before the President. This morning at the Foreign Office, Mr. Henderson met in informal consultation the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, and Mr. Eden, as representing the United Kingdom. Later, taking advantage of their presence in London, the President also met Messrs. Norman Davis and Hugh Wilson, as representatives of the United States.

Mr. Henderson intends in a few days to make a communication to members of the Bureau of the Conference containing his suggestions as to the future course of its proceedings.—British Wireless.
